Wally, Walt And Donn Tone Down TV Show

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — The Apollo 7 astronauts, eager to come home, told television viewers on a matter-of-fact tour of their smooth-running spaceship today as they sped on the downhill leg of their marathon space voyage.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham took time from the demanding chore of checking out the many complex systems of their craft to beam Episode No. 4 of the Wally, Walt and Donn show to earth as Apollo 7 swept south of the southern United States.

In contrast to the first two televised shows, when there were many hijinks and funny signs, today's 12-minute episode was a very sober affair.

Reception also was the worst yet, as the picture on the screen split and rolled many times. But generally the pictures were excellent.

The astronauts started to tone down the show Wednesday, reportedly on orders from high Space Agency officials who objected to the fun-and-games aspects of the show.

Like A Monkey
The closest thing to a joke was when Schirra, floating in weightlessness, described the movement as being "like kind

Another Birthday

WOODBURY, N.J. (AP) — The Hudson family of Wenonah, N.J., will celebrate three birthdays on Oct. 16 from now on.

Lorraine Hudson, 30, gave birth Wednesday at Underwood Hospital to her third child, a boy named Randy.

His sister, Lorie, was born Oct. 16, 1966, and his brother Edward, on Oct. 16, 1965.

Their father, Warren, 31, works out of the Pitman, N.J., Post Office as a letter carrier.

Johnson Steals Show From Two Contenders

NEW YORK (AP) — The Democratic and Republican contenders, Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon, finally got into the same ring—but with the retiring champion, Lyndon B. Johnson, looking on and stealing the show.

While Humphrey kidded Nixon and Nixon praised President Johnson—sounding almost as if he rather than Humphrey were Johnson's vice president—Johnson spread the humor with a nonpartisan hand.

Praises Johnson
The scene was the annual Alfred E. Smith Memorial Dinner presided over by New York Archbishop Terence J. Cooke. On hand were an array of political figures past and present—including New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller; former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey; Sen. Jacob K. Javits; James A. Farley; Franklin D. Roosevelt's chief political operator, and the three principal figures, Nixon, Humphrey and Johnson.

Humphrey recalled that he had been trying unsuccessfully to get Nixon to debate him in a face-to-face confrontation. With Nixon only a few seats away, Humphrey observed, "What the television networks, the United States Congress and my telegrams couldn't accomplish, Archbishop Cooke has accomplished. . . I wish I had Archbishop Cooke as my campaign manager and my advance man and my finance chairman."

When Nixon spoke he noted that there are times when people in politics had to be critical of each other but there are other occasions above politics.

And then, the man who was Dwight D. Eisenhower's vice president said of Democrat of a monkey moving around its cage."

In a demonstration of weightlessness, he blew a floating pencil around the cabin with his breath.

Holding the camera, Schirra first focused on a window and commented, "We're looking over the commander's seat now. You can see the sun coming into the window."

Then he panned around the cabin, showing the instrument panels, crew couches and sleeping area.

He concentrated on two of the spacecraft windows, hoping to show the Mission Control Center show of the debris that has collected on the pane, causing some sighting problems.

Drops Camera
At one point he momentarily dropped the camera, and one of the astronauts said, "That's a good example of Zero G."

He reported that the camera hung suspended in the cabin for a moment before Schirra retrieved it.

Following the show, the astronauts settled down to exercising over and over the many systems of the 15-ton craft which has more than two million functioning parts.

On tap for the day were guidance and navigation checks, star readings with the sextants and weather and terrain photography.

Although the flight has been near-perfect for six days, the spacemen have been suffering from pesky colds. Cunningham indicated Wednesday night he wished the final day would hurry. He said: "I'd like to figure how we could make that big clock count down faster."

This was shortly after he was told the mission had more than 132 hours to go.

Past Halfway Point
Two hours later, Apollo 7 zipped at 17,500 miles an hour past the halfway point of the planned 11-day flight. There was no fanfare, but when told later that the milestone had been passed, Schirra commented: "We're over the hill halfway, anyway, and that's a good sign."

Eisele was informed about it after awakening from a long sleep period and said: "Yeah, that's great."

Flight Director Glynn Lunney said Apollo 7 has performed so well that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is firming plans to send Apollo 8 around the moon late in December.

Liken To Custer
Johnson, at times looking almost glum, also was praised by Rockefeller, who said, "We know the tremendous burdens you have been carrying for all of us and the people of this great state are deeply gratified."

Johnson spoke last. He noted all the veterans of the political wars around him. He kidded that no chief had ever been surrounded by so many Indians.

"I don't think any veteran can appreciate my feelings on this

GOP Spending Potential High

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans, hoping to capture control of Congress for the first time in 14 years, started the campaign with a 7-to-1 advantage over Democrats in congressional campaign funds reported to the government.

The Republican party reported to the House of Representatives raising $3.1 million through its national fund-raising organizations between Jan. 1 and Aug. 31.

Democrats reported raising $451,318 through their organizations.

The reports didn't include funds raised by state and local organizations and outside groups like labor unions.

The AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, which traditionally supports Democrats, reported spending $743,754 on congressional races through Aug. 31, but didn't say which candidates or parties got the money.

The independent United Auto Workers reported spending $51,760, all of it on 25 Democrats.

The Executive Firms Campaign Committee, a combine of Wall Street brokerage firms—reported raising $124,000 for congressional races. The only expenditure listed went to a Republican.

Expenditures reported by the party committees are almost in the same ratio as the contributions—$2.6 million spent by the Republicans and $398,452 by the Democrats.

The chief GOP organization—the National Congressional Campaign Committee—reports taking in $1.9 million and spending $1.6 million.

By contrast, the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee during the same period reports income of $307,850 and expenditures of $109,444.

The big financial edge enjoyed by the Republicans in House races is further increased by the money raised and spent by their Boosters' Club, which concentrates on aiding GOP candidates who are trying to unseat Democrats. The regular committee funds go to incumbents seeking re-election.

Reds Soft-Pedaling East-West Frictions

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Soviet bloc representatives in the current policy debate at the U.N. General Assembly are soft pedaling East-West friction points and playing up prospects of a detente.

Poland, which usually follows the harsh line in U.N. debate, sounded the most conciliatory in its appearance Wednesday.

Deputy Foreign Minister Jozef Winiewicz expressed hope that the German problem would not become a stumbling block to an East-West detente and said his government is ready to expand contacts with Western countries.

Winiewicz reflected the tone set by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who made no excuses for the occupation of Czechoslovakia but played down Vietnam and cited the need for improving relations with the West.

Like Winiewicz, the Soviet foreign minister insisted that the unity of Eastern Europe must be maintained. But West German diplomatic sources said Gromyko had assured Secretary of State Dean Rusk privately that the milestone had been passed, Schirra commented: "We're over the hill halfway, anyway, and that's a good sign."

Eisele was informed about it after awakening from a long sleep period and said: "Yeah, that's great."

Oct. 6 that there would be no East European threat to West Berlin in the foreseeable future.

The same note of restraint was evident in speeches by Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Ukraine.

Delegates believe the Russians want to protect an image of mildness and peaceful power to offset the damaging effect of the Czechoslovak occupation on relations with the West.

Kosygin said the withdrawal will include troops of Poland, Hungary, East Germany and Bulgaria, the four East bloc nations that joined in the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia Aug. 20 to reverse the country's liberalization drive.

Kosygin spoke at the signing of a treaty with Premier Oldrich Cernik legalizing the Soviet occupation. His speech was reported by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Anticipating further criticism of the Soviet Union because of the treaty, Kosygin urged Communist unity to combat this.

"The enemies of socialism will fume and rage," he said. "They will try to distort the meaning of our treaty and to aggravate international tension. The enemies of Czechoslovak-Soviet friendship want nothing more than to erect a wall of alienation and sow distrust between our peoples."

"We must oppose this by our unity, which is stronger because it is engendered by the community of our class interests and our goals of building socialism and communism."

He predicted that the treaty "will meet with the broadest support and approval of the peoples of the U.S.S.R. and Czechoslovakia, other Socialist nations and all the forces which prize the cause of peace and socialism."

Cernik said the treaty "strengthened relations of close cooperation and friendship between the Czechoslovak nation and the nations of all countries of the Socialist community," the Czechoslovak news agency CTK reported.

But Kosygin received a chilly reception at Prague's airport on his arrival from Moscow, reflecting local distaste for the treaty. As required by protocol,

LBJ Waits On Hanoi Before Bombing Halt

Chicken House

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) —

George C. Wallace looked around the house that was once a boarded shack where he and his late wife, Lurleen, and their first child lived during World War II, and said, "When you're young, you don't really recognize the good times."

They used to call it the Chicken House, and it stands beside a dusty alley in an area slated for urban renewal.

Wallace, third-party candidate for president, took a few moments off from campaign rallies Wednesday to visit the house, now stuccoed and with an addition.

Wallace recalled that the small structure had had chickens in it and had to be cleaned up before they moved in.

He stood beside a picket fence and chatted with neighbors about times there with Lurleen, who died last May of cancer, and their daughter Bobbie Jo while he trained at Alamogordo Army Air Base as a bomber crewman.

A small group of neighbors gathered nearby and the candidate chatted with them.

Then he walked down an alley, across a busy commercial street and onto the porch at the home of Josephine Robertson.

"Welcome home governor," Mrs. Robertson greeted the former Alabama governor.

They chatted a bit and Wallace kissed Mrs. Robertson on the cheek as he left.

Earlier he escorted an elderly couple, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Searcy, to the speaker's platform in a city park. He said the Searcys had a country store when he lived in Alamogordo.

At least eight times, he told anyone who would listen that "Lurleen and I left town owing these nice folks $12. But he'll tell you, and don't forget to include this, we paid the bill."

The weekly casualty report said 177 Americans died in combat during the seven-day period ending at midnight Saturday.

This was the lowest number of Americans killed since 159 died in the week ending Aug. 17. In the week ending Oct. 5, 190 Americans were killed in action.

The U.S. Command also reported that 1,278 Americans were wounded last week, with 659 requiring hospitalization. A week earlier, 1,326 were wounded.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that 176 government troops were killed last week, 690 were wounded and 14 were missing. In the previous week the totals were 322 killed, 1,065 wounded and 25 missing.

A total of 1,527 of the enemy were reported killed last week, a sharp drop from the 2,115 reported for the week before. But the latter figure was an upward revision from 1,654 reported last Thursday.

Cernik and Cabinet officials were on hand, but there was no official greeter from the nation's Communist party and the honor guard omitted the usual salutation: "Success, comrade premier."

Prague sources said the Czechoslovaks are dissatisfied with Russian demands for the right of Soviet military courts to try occupation soldiers charged with law violations; Soviet-proposed financial arrangements for the cost of basing troops here, and the vagueness of the agreement which lets the Russians decide how long occupation troops will remain.

Continue Sorties Amid Meetings

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson reportedly is awaiting assurances from Hanoi that a halt in U. S. bombing of North Vietnam will result in prompt new Communist steps toward peace.

Indications are that he is preparing to act quickly if and when the word comes through from Hanoi not only giving the assurances but also spelling out just what steps will be taken.

Hope that such word would be forthcoming appeared to be based on several weeks of secret exchanges between Washington and Hanoi which by Wednesday had gone so far that South Vietnamese leaders evidently were persuaded an end to the bombing was only hours away.

In Saigon U. S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker met three times Wednesday with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu. A high Vietnamese official said they discussed a new proposal to halt all bombing of the North, restricted since March 31 to the southern panhandle.

Air strikes against the North continued, however, and more were planned for today. At the same time, Pentagon figures showed that bad weather has reduced sorties over the North by 30 per cent since midsummer.

The weather could be expected to drop the level even further in the next six months, a factor that likely would be considered in weighing the risks of a full halt.

No Pronouncements

Johnson flew to New York Wednesday to appear with the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates at the annual nonpolitical Alfred E. Smith memorial dinner.

The White House announced before he left that he would make "no pronouncements."

In Paris, U.S. and North Vietnamese peace negotiations met for the 26th time, and the American spokesman said afterward there had been movement but "I cannot characterize it as progress."

Initially U.S. spokesmen refused either to confirm or deny Wednesday the possibility of a break. But in midmorning the White House issued a statement that U.S. policy was unchanged and there had been "no breakthrough" on the bombing issue. Johnson then called up the three major presidential candidates—Richard M. Nixon in Kansas City, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in St. Louis, and George C. Wallace in Los Angeles—and told them he was announcing:

"The position of the United States with respect to Vietnam remains as set forth by the President and the secretary of state. There has been no basic change in the situation; no breakthrough."

Matter Sensitive
Democrat Humphrey said soon afterward in a speech to suburban St. Louis housewives that the matter at the moment was "very sensitive," and added, "for me at this stage to say anything further would add only to the confusion which you already have."

Study U.P. Scenic Roads

The Michigan State Highway Commission is looking forward to a building program which will eventually ring the entire Great Lakes Shoreline of the Upper Peninsula with four-lane Scenic Highways, according to Wallace D. (Mike) Nunn, of East Tawas, one of the four members of the Commission.

He is accompanying the Special Scenic Road Committee of the Michigan Legislature on a four-day fact-finding tour of the Eastern Upper Peninsula.

The Committee arrived at St. Ignace Tuesday and completes its tour Friday, Oct. 18, with a formal hearing for residents of the entire Upper Peninsula in the Huron Room of the Northern Michigan University Center at Marquette. The hearing is scheduled for 11 a.m., Marquette time.

Ken Dorman, secretary-manager of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association, who made arrangements for the fact-finding tour, said all officials and civic leaders of the western counties of the Upper Peninsula have been invited to attend the Marquette meeting to present their views on scenic roads.

Scenic Highways

There is insufficient time for the committee to cover the entire Peninsula, Dorman said, and the Marquette meeting has been arranged for the western counties to make known their views to the special legislative committee, which is headed by State Senator Thomas Schweigert of Petoskey. The hearing is expected to continue during Friday afternoon.

At the start of the fact-finding tour in St. Ignace, Nunn told a group of civic leaders:

"The answer to the highway program of the Upper Peninsula is a series of four-lane scenic highways all along the Great Lakes shoreline. The Upper Peninsula does not need rapid transit divided express highways for mass movement of traffic. It needs access highways to its beauty spots so visitors can see its truly wonderful scenery."

He added that other members of the commission agreed with this view. He said that two-lane scenic shoreline highways should be built first where none exist, but that these two-lane highways and others now existing should be expanded in the future to four-lane highways throughout the peninsula.

Need U. S. Funds
The four-lane scenic highways are needed for safety, he pointed out, because of the large numbers of house-trailers, camping and boat trailers, which will be using these roads. There should be a slow lane for slow vehicles and a fast lane for fast vehicles. And, he added, there should be numerous scenic turn-outs where visitors could stop to admire the view.

The legislative committee, headed by Schweigert, was formed for the particular purpose of planning such a scenic highway program when and if federal funds become available to finance it. The group is making the Upper Peninsula the scene of its first field trip and is expected to complete its report to the Legislature by next January.

A SPECIAL Scenic Roads Committee of the Michigan Legislature is touring the Upper Peninsula on a four-day fact-finding trip with Highway Commissioner Wallace D. (Mike) Nunn of East Tawas (right) to study the scenic highway needs of the area. The group will hold a formal hearing for all Upper Peninsula civic and governmental leaders in Marquette at Northern Michigan University on Friday, October 18.

In various informal hearings during the past few days, Schweigert has emphasized that scenic highways programs for the entire nation probably will not be acted upon by Congress until completion of the present interstate expressways program, which is expected to come between 1972 and 1975.

But, he added, the state must be ready immediately with its own scenic highway program to take advantage of the federal funds when they become available. It was understood that the federal share of such a program would be 75 per cent, with the state bearing the other 25 per cent.

The special legislative committee has not specified what highways it has in mind, but informed sources said the Upper Peninsula program probably would cover more than 500 miles.

It would include such shoreline areas as Detour-Munising, 137 miles; Marquette-L'Anse, 83 miles; Keweenaw Peninsula, 96 miles; Ontonagon-Houghton, 49 miles; Garden Peninsula, 65 miles; Naubinway-Gulliver, 38 miles.

Other members of the special legislative committee traveling with Schweigert and Nunn are State Senators Mike O'Brien and Stanley Rozycki, of Detroit; Gordon Rockwell of Mt. Morris; James Fleming of Jackson; State Representative Josephine Hunsinger of Detroit; and Charles Larsen of Lansing, executive assistant to the Michigan Senate.

Higher Rates On Parcel Post In Effect Saturday

Escanaba Postmaster James E. Pryal reminded postal customers today that higher parcel post and catalog rates will go into effect Saturday, Oct. 19.

The rate increase will average 10.5 per cent and in most cases will mean an additional 10 cents per parcel. The higher rates were approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission in July.

Under the new rates the minimum charge for local parcel delivery will go from 40 to 50 cents. The minimum charge for parcels destined outside the local delivery area will be raised from 50 cents to 60 cents.

Almost all parcels that are charged up to $1.10 under present rates will go up 10 cents.

There will be a 15-cent hike on most parcels now charged between $1.10 and $4, and a 20-cent increase on parcels now charged over $4.

Higher rates for the delivery of packages and catalogs are required to bring revenue from this type of mail within four per cent of operating costs, as required by law. The higher rates are designed to put parcels and catalogs, which are fourth-class mail, on a break-even basis.

Additional revenue is needed from parcel post and catalogs to off-set higher costs resulting from pay increases approved last year for postal employees.

Partners Charged With Fraud

Two Men Face Hearing In Bowl-A-Rama Case

By DAVE ANDREWS

Two men charged with criminal fraud for failing to pay subcontractors and building suppliers for services and supplies provided in construction of the Bowl-A-Rama in Escanaba five years ago have been ordered to stand trial in Circuit Court.

Municipal Judge James Fitzharris ordered Berval E. Thorson of Wausau, Wis., and Alexander H. Massopust Jr. of Madison Lake, Minn., bound over to Circuit Court, each on two counts of fraud.

The men probably will be arraigned on the charges before Judge Bernard H. Davidson in the January term of Circuit Court.

Thorson and Massopust were partners in Peninsula Construction Co., Iron Mountain, which had the general contract for building the Bowl-A-Rama. The firm subsequently filed bankruptcy.

After an investigation by the Michigan Attorney General's office, warrants for Thorson and Massopust were issued by Fitzharris. Preliminary hearing on the charges was held in the spring of 1967.

Fitzharris said the reason the ruling on the case was delayed was that the attorney for Thorson and Massopust—Bailley Blethen of Mankato, Minn.—and Assistant Attorney Gen. Robert Dietrick of Lansing were slow in acting on briefs. The attorney general's office, Fitzharris said, never did file a reply brief.

Thorson and Massopust are charged in the warrants with obtaining $12,500 from Delta Recreation, Inc., owners of the Bowl-A-Rama, and another $70,000 from a Bowl-A-Rama mortgage with Thorpe Finance Corp., Niagara, Wis., and "with intent to defraud, retained and used said monies or a part thereof for their own use and/or other purposes" contrary to Michigan law.

Authorities said Thorson and Massopust filed bankruptcy proceedings for Peninsula Construction Co. and then formed a new construction company.

The investigation was conducted by State Police Det. Alex Schwartzkopf and Dietrick.

Dietrick is acting as a special prosecutor for Delta County after Nicholas P. Chapekis, county prosecutor, withdrew because of his involvement in civil actions relevant to the case.

Co-complainants are Clayton C. Tanguay, of Delta Recreation Inc., and Arthur DeCamp, one of 16 area subcontractors, building suppliers and contractors who allegedly were defrauded of payments totaling $51,314.

Conviction could bring a maximum penalty of three years in prison and a $5,000 fine on each count.

Alger-Marquette Receive Grant

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney has announced approval of three antipoverty grants totaling some $200,000 and assignment of two Vista volunteers to serve under Four-Cap, Inc., covering Leelanau, Antrim, Benzie, Grand Traverse and Kalkaska counties. The grants include $95,386 to the Bay-Midland Area Commission on Economic Opportunity; $44,479 to Five-Cap, Inc., serving Lake, Mason, Manistee and Newaygo counties; and $67,276 to the Alger-Marquette Community Action Board.

Help Daughter Escape Retention

DETROIT (AP)—An Ecorse couple pleaded guilty Wednesday to a charge that they helped their 14-year-old daughter escape from the Girls Training School at Adrian. Mr. and Mrs. Andy Hamilton face a possible maximum penalty of one year in prison for helping their daughter, Irene, escape.

The school, to which the girl was sentenced indefinitely on a charge of soliciting last November had not reported her missing. Police were notified by a neighbor that the girl was at her parents' home.

Retarded Kids Need To Learn

(Fourth of a Series)

What do the parents of mentally retarded boys and girls want for their children? What does the community want for them?

The answer is simple: the same benefits from life that the average child receives—love, friendship, moral upbringing, a purpose in life, and a good education.

Fate may decide whether the first four benefits are bestowed upon any child, disadvantaged or otherwise. The last item—education—is a practical reality for a retarded child, provided that a special institution is established and that someone is willing to pay for its maintenance.

Operate School

The catalyst of hope for the retarded child in this area is the Retarded Children's Association which is dedicated to helping all retarded persons in the county whether they are at home, in a school or in an institution.

Specifically, it is the agency which operates the John F. Kennedy School for the Mentally Retarded with the assistance of two non-certified but dedicated teachers.

But the Association is in a desperate financial condition. It has the responsibility of financing the operation of the school because the public school system was unable to secure the services of a qualified special education teacher.

Without a teacher certified to teach the mentally retarded, a school system can receive no state or federal aid. And the Escanaba Area Public Schools, which is plagued by financial problems, is in no position to accept the responsibility of operating the JFK School.

Therefore, the Retarded Children's Association must hire the teachers, pay their salaries and underwrite all operating expenses.

Presently there are 19 children attending the school; more have made application! In order to economize on operating costs, parents of children transported to school and take turns cleaning, repairing and maintaining the school building and grounds.

The Association is requesting $5,000 from the funds collected in this year's D. U. S. drive in order to pay the teachers' salaries and miscellaneous maintenance costs.

Aside from other gifts and bequests from a generous public, the D. U. S. fund is the Association's only source of revenue. The mentally retarded children of Delta County are citizens of our community appealing to us, their neighbors, for help. They are asking for an education.

Flying Club Marks First Anniversary

The Bay de Noc Flying Club celebrated the first Anniversary of its chartering Wednesday.

The Club has grown from two to 11 members in one year, and although the first year was difficult, members are now looking forward to a successful future. Most of the problems of infancy have been solved.

The Club has its charter and is incorporated. Twelve members are sufficient to sustain it, but the club still wishes to expand and add a trainer to its equipment. Addition of a trainer will make it more economical to practice. Also, there will be a plane available if the other one is being used for a cross-country flight. A two-seater aircraft is all that is needed for training or exercising.

Presently, the Club owns a four place Cessna 172, which is a compromise between a trainer and a cross-country plane. The plane is well-equipped with radios, including a new Mark 12, 360 Channel unit. The equipment is covered by insurance.

Purpose of the Club is to promote safe flying and provide flying at cost to its members.

To keep equipment in top shape, Club policy is to have the plane inspected every 100 hours by an FAA approved mechanic.

Mayor Lindsay Booed By Whites

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay was booed and cursed by a hostile white audience at a Brooklyn Jewish center Tuesday night when he pleaded for understanding in the city's racially tense school crisis.

When the mayor finished speaking, a crowd of about 4,000 whites greeted him outside with shouts of "Lindsay must go!" Police had to restrain the crowd which pounded on Lindsay's car as he drove away.

There have been acts of vigilanteism by both groups.

The strike against the 1.1-million pupil public school system is in its third day with no talks slated in the dispute. It is the UFT's third walkout of the six-week-old fall term.

The walkout is over the refusal of the locally elected governing board of the Ocean Hill-Brownsville experimental school district to reinstate 80 ousted UFT members.

Suspect Election Day Disturbances

EAST LANSING (AP) — State Police called Wednesday for tight security measures on voting machines in the face of the possibility that "radical militant groups" may try to disrupt the state elections process Nov. 5.

Col. Fredrick E. Davids, State Police director, cited an Associated Press story about a recent Colorado meeting of the Students for a Democratic Society.

The meeting, Davids said, makes it clear "every precaution must be taken to insure an orderly voting process in next month's general election."

Davids said SDS members "have resolved to enlist high school and college students in demonstrations planned to coincide with the Presidential election."

"We ought to be prepared for any overt action by any group that seeks to impede the normal election day activity," he said. "We're not begging trouble. We simply want local jurisdictions to be alert and prepared for any possible problem."

In East Lansing — where SDS has a chapter at Michigan State University — Darrell Chadwell, in charge of the city's voting machines, said:

"We're not anticipating any trouble. But if there is any we will be in a position to handle it." Chadwell declined to elaborate.

Under state law, tampering with the ballots or voting machines is a felony.

There are about 1,200 shoe-making firms in the United Kingdom, one-third of which have less than 20 employees, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Antiwhite propaganda will not be part of our school system," Lindsay promised inside the center, "anti-Semitic epithets will not be part of our school system."

"But they are! But they are!" shouted hecklers in the audience of about 1,500.

At the height of the disturbance, Lindsay had to shout to make himself heard.

Pointing out an official of the striking AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers, Lindsay compared some of the teachers' actions with those taken by the predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican school district in Brooklyn which is seeking decentralization.

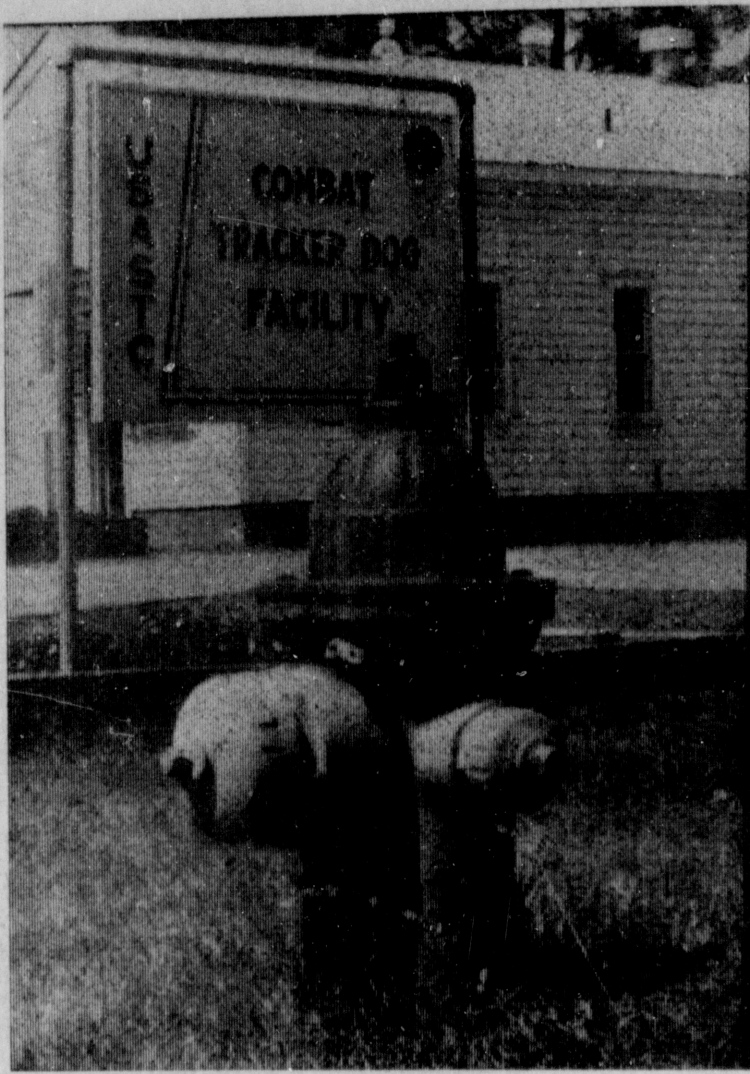

"Our city will not survive if teachers are illegally transferred any more than it will if this gentleman here leads the teachers in an illegal strike," Lindsay said, "I say to you that Springtime weather in October has fooled many plants and flowers into overtime production: Roses are blooming here and there, lilies are in flower in sheltered spots in the garden, and Tony Rumac of Arnold reports that his strawberries are ripe for the picking.

"There are between 200 and 300 plants with ripe strawberries on them," said Rumac. "Usually we have berries only in June, but this ideal weather has made a late crop appear."

The plants are an ever-bearing variety, planted by Rumac in September, 1967.

Waterless Town Is Seeking Help

TRAUGER, Pa. (AP) — There's no water in Trauger. Well, almost none.

People take baths at homes of friends or relatives outside the western Pennsylvania village 35 miles southwest of Pittsburgh. Women take clothes to coin laundries in other towns. Watering lawns is unthinkable.

When water is available, it drips and spurts during the wee hours of the morning when a bit of feeble pressure builds up.

Women put milk jugs and plastic cartons under the faucet to gather enough to boil and use for drinking. Sometimes there isn't enough.

The problem is really nothing new to the 200 people in this former coal mining community. They haven't had an adequate water supply for six or seven years.

Ownerless Now

But concern is widespread now. Not only do residents have an erratic water system, they have an ownerless one. The Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission closed its books on the Trauger case Tuesday, authorizing George Gaydar to relinquish ownership. Gaydar had pleaded he was losing money.

With help from Eugene D. Saloom, a state legislator from nearby Mount Pleasant, Trauger residents are now managing the system themselves. Saloom said he will assume responsibility while residents continue a thus far unsuccessful fight for assistance.

Gaydar is the last of a number of individuals given title to the system, without charge, by the H.C. Frick Coal Co. when the company quit the village and left its company houses and store in 1935.

Bought Water

Gaydar bought water from the Municipal Water Authority of Westmoreland County, which serves some 55,000 customers in five counties, including Westmoreland. The authority has an income of $4 million a year, assets of $49 million and indebtedness of just over $29 million.

The authority charged Gaydar some $200 per month for the water poured through the line, which no one seems to get. It has no other obligation. To maintain the line and the quality of water was Gaydar's job.

Harvey Shopsy, an engineer and Tom Hyde, a steelworker, have been fighting to have the authority take over the system. But the authority wants $27,000, the price it says 5,400 feet of new pipe will cost, to give the village adequate water.

Good State Move

Thomas Roumell, director of the Michigan Department of Labor, has appointed an Advisory Committee on Logging and Forest Industry to counsel the Department on the development of a safety code or safety standards which would be applied by the state in the industry.

The group is an excellent one, highly qualified to advise the state about what's sensible in the way of protection of the workmen and of compensation for his injuries.

Edward Locke of Marquette, a pulpwood supplier to Wisconsin mills who is the manager of Upper Great Lakes Timber, Inc., is chairman of the committee. The new non-profit corporation which he manages was created by the Michigan's Advisory Task Force of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission to find ways to make the Lakes States timber industry more stable, safe and profitable.

Working with him on the new advisory group of the State Labor Department are Marvin Pearson, Wausau, Employers Insurance Co., safety research analyst; Philip Huntley, Norway, safety director for Kimberly Clark's Woodlands Division; Robert Barron, Escanaba Paper Co. safety official; William C. Deneen, Gaylord, U. S. Plywood Corp.; Kenneth L. Baxstrom, Alpena, Abitibi Corp.; and Lyle Luke of Luke Brothers, Michigamme loggers.

Our Lake States logging to produce wood for our paper mills, sawmills, veneer mills and other converting facilities has always been disorganized, hazardous, unstable and marginal. Profits have been erratic and business failures have been frequent; unemployment and underemployment are chronic and the industry operates under a continuing problem of wood surplus.

The efficiency which the paper industry has been able to achieve in the paper mill has not been achieved in the woods where the timber is harvested. The forest still is the realm of the little independent operator and he is under great pressures to cut his costs and compete with wood suppliers in other areas. (Most Upper Peninsula pulpwood goes to Wisconsin and it is buying increasing amounts of processed pulp from Southern and Western mills rather than make it themselves because the Wisconsin mills cannot make it as cheaply as more modern mills using industrial wood wastes.)

One of the big items in the cost squeeze on loggers in the Upper Peninsula is workmen's accident compensation insurance. If U. P. loggers could save the amount they pay for insurance over what Wisconsin loggers pay they'd have a bigger profit than most of them now average on their wood production.

Logging conditions are comparable in Northern Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, but in Wisconsin loggers pay $9.80 per $100 of payroll for their insurance and in Michigan the amount is $27.24. Michigan has the highest loggers compensation rate in the world. Minnesota also has a very high one — $22 per $100 of payroll.

It is significant that Wisconsin has a loggers safety code like the one that the new advisory committee will urge upon the Michigan Department of Labor. Michigan doesn't have one; neither does Minnesota.

Such a code could require the use of safe logging practices, canopies on tractors, hard hats and safety shoes, etc.

The code alone won't reduce Michigan's rate to the level of Wisconsin's. There are other factors in the picture, like the degree of safe practices required by insurance underwriters of their clients. The impression grows that we're not getting a uniform service of insurance on loggers compensation from all underwriters in Michigan; that some insurance organizations do a good job of judging risks and trying to reduce them, and that others — including the state's own insurance plan — contribute most of the claims to the state record and create this horrendously high insurance charge.

Efforts to inquire into the state's insurance policy in this field have so far been unsatisfactory and frustrating.

Organizations like the Advisory Committee on Logging and Upper Great Lakes Timber, Inc., should be able to chop through this underbrush of bureaucracy and learn why we put one of our most important industries under such a handicap.

Of course, kids are in revolt in every generation, but at least our generation's mothers made us wash before we protested.

The March Resumes

MSU Trustee Deals Create Vote Issue

By DENNIS C. KNICKERBOCKER

For Panax Newspapers

Bitter words and hints of financial wheeling and dealing in high public places are beginning to characterize one Michigan election contest.

This close to Nov. 5, it might be expected. But all the shouting this time is going on in the halls of state-supported higher education.

Much to the embarrassment of some persons, the race to fill two open seats on the Michigan State University Board of Trustees—normally a quiet, issueless event—is dominated by a single question, which may or may not be resolved before the election.

It is whether to fire, demote or retain MSU's treasurer and vice-president for business and finance, Philip J. May.

The longer that issue remains open, the more complicated things are getting for the trustees.

Office Building Issue

The conflicts centered around a $1.2 million office building May erected next to the MSU campus last year. He leased 44 per cent of the space to International Business Machines, Inc., which does a half million dollars in business each year with May's employer, the university. May previously recommended on MSU's computer purchases.

May says he has divested himself of the conflicts, but he still holds his $37,000-a-year position while the board, bitterly and evenly divided, argues over what to do next.

How the issue is resolved is considered vital to MSU's public relations by observers on both sides of the controversy. Students and faculty, always sensitive to any sign of hypocrisy in the administration, also are watching.

And what is decided in East Lansing perhaps will set a pattern for handling similar problems, if they arise, at Eastern—Central—Northern Michigan University and other state schools in the midst of rapid, costly growth.

11 Years Service

May, who has been Michigan State's top financial officer for 11 years including the recent boom period, says because he has gotten rid of the conflicts he should not be penalized further.

But some of the incumbent trustees and at least two candidates in the November election say May's past and continued presence are a threat to the university's image.

Even MSU President John M. Hannah, who has defended May's performance as treasurer, has questioned his judgment on his private matters and suggested May might be better suited to another position at MSU.

On Sept. 20, the eight-member board of trustees split evenly on a motion to have May fired, and he kept his job due to the lack of a majority. Four Democrats voted to dismiss him; three Republicans and another Democrat voted for his retention.

Some observers said the vote showed a clear partisan split. They then went on to call for election of Democratic candidates in November to break the impasse.

Not Simply Loyalty

Others, noting the lone Democrat voting with the GOP minority, said the vote, instead, was a confrontation of board members who are loyal to the administration of President Hannah and those who are not so loyal.

Either analysis apparently is an over-simplification. One of the GOP candidates, David Diehl of Dansville, indicated he might vote to fire or transfer May, as the Democrat candidates have always said they will do.

"This upset is causing many good faculty members to leave the university," Diehl said. "I really feel something is going to happen before I am elected."

The other Republican candidate, Richard D. Ernst of Birmingham, said "The university suffers when the public has doubts."

"It would be fair to say that if after a review of the information, it is shown that Mr. May (used his public office for private gain), it would be sufficient reason to move him to a position other than vice-president for business and finance."

They're For Ouster

Democrats Warren Huff of Plymouth and Dr. Blanche Martin of East Lansing have persisted in strongly backing the efforts to remove May from office. "It is a question of integrity," both Huff and Martin said.

Despite the origin of the rift, it is the framework for the election of two new trustees.

Some persons consider this a tragic situation because whoever is elected will be entrusted to serve MSU for eight years and vote on many issues, not just the one involving May.

Other characters in the episode are two lame-duck Democrat trustees—Connor D. Smith of Pinconning, who has been on the board for 13 years and who voted with the Republicans to keep May, and C. Allen Harlan of Southfield, on the board for 11 years and May's personal enemy.

Private Conflicts

In the June 18 opinion from Kelley, May was cited as having many intertwined private conflicts with his public duties during most of his career as financial vice-president. Kelley said May was in a position to be tempted to serve himself better than the public.

What Kelley jokingly described as "May's maze" in a recent conversation is briefly as follows:

1. Substantial interest, through, until recently, stock held by Mrs. May, in the Philip Jesse (May) Co., a firm which was formed solely to own the $1.2 million office building constructed for May adjacent to the MSU campus.

2. Leasing 44 per cent of the building to IBM, at an annual rate of $48,800, about half of what would be needed to give May's company complete ownership of the building in 12 to 15 years.

3. Negotiating and advising, as MSU's business representative, on the rental of IBM equipment for the university, which in 1967 amounted to $494,437 in business for the company.

Loan To Director

4. While serving on the board of directors of the Michigan National Bank, May secured a $1.1 million construction mortgage from the bank to finance the building. The mortgage was obtained after May demonstrated IBM's intent to lease part of the building. Michigan National Bank is MSU's chief depository and the university, through May, secures loans from the bank and sells bonds to the bank.

5. Hiring Ralph Calder & Associates to design the building at a fixed fee of $20,000 or about 2.5 per cent of the total construction cost. Calder already had designed $80 million in construction at MSU over a 10 year period at the prevailing rate of 5 per cent of costs.

6. Hiring three contractors, without advertising for bids to seek the lowest offer, to construct the building. The contractors all had done prior business for MSU amounting to nearly $10 million over 10 years.

May told a Panax reporter that IBM chose to locate near the campus because it was a "well-traveled route," not because MSU is a high-volume customer, nor because IBM previously rented from May in downtown Lansing.

"People You Know"

"You tend to go to the people you know," he said of his hiring architects and builders who also deal with MSU.

In his opinion, Kelley said such possibly innocent but tempting situations are exactly what conflict-of-interest laws seek to prevent among public officials.

Kelley noted the words of Chief Justice Earl Warren in a U. S. Supreme Court conflict case:

"The moral principal upon which the statute is based has its foundation in the Biblical admonition that no man may serve two masters, Matt. 6:24, a maxim which is especially pertinent if one of the masters happens to be economic self-interest."

"The obvious purpose of the statute," Warren said, "is to insure honesty in the government's business dealings by preventing (state) agents who have interests adverse to those of the government from advancing their own interests at the expense of the public welfare."

"Political Football"

May said his was a business-like plan to make money outside his university job. It was no sin and even Kelley termed the matter a "close question," May said.

He said he is being used by archrival Harlan and others as a "political football."

"I have heard a lot about due process," he added, "but I have seen none of it. They have acted as prosecution, judge and jury."

One MSU faculty member summarized the feeling of some of his fellows and of May's opponents on the board.

"If he were a private businessman, Mr. May would have been congratulated. He tried to make money the way good businessmen do — by being on the inside. But the public trust was involved and he should have been satisfied with his $37,000 salary or leave for private business."

Warren Huff, one of the Democratic candidates for trustee, said May exhibited "greed."

Cozy Deals?

"They fired the president of Chrysler Corp., for doing much the same thing," Huff added. "Our position as trustees is not that of lawyers but of service to the public."

Huff said a prospective vendor seeking MSU business now must ask himself the question "Do I have to make some kind of cozy deal with Mr. May?"

Harlan has vowed to keep the issue of what to do with May before the board even after the election, if necessary, and after Jan. 1, when he, Harlan, will leave.

All of his and his wife's stock in the Philip Jesse Co., has been sold to a brother in South Dakota, May said, and sworn affidavits have been filed with Kelley's office to prove it.

May also notes that he resigned his bank directorship in September, 1967, as did many other state university trustees, regents and administrators throughout Michigan. That shake-up followed another of Kelley's conflict opinions.

"President Hannah and I always thought it was an advantage for me in handling the university's finances to sit on the bank board," May said, remembering the old days.

Question Eliminated

Hannah said any question of May's role in deciding whether IBM computers will be used by MSU has been eliminated,

LSD May Deform His Child

Dear Ann Landers: In a weak moment I took LSD. I am a college student, male, 20 years of age. Since that time I've heard LSD alters the chromosomes of the body and one can expect deformed children. I am now steering clear of serious romantic involvements because I dare not risk such unhappiness for any girl.

Do you know of any tests to determine if the chromosomes have been damaged to the extent that the children would be deformed? Kindly answer through your column as it would seriously upset my parents if they knew the burden I carry. My anxiety is enough for the entire family. — MICHIGANDER

Dear Michigander: I asked Nobel Prize winner Joshua Lederberg, of the Stanford University School of Medicine, one of the foremost authorities on genetics, to answer your question. Here is his reply:

Dear Ann Landers: This is in response to your query about the possibility of LSD producing deformed babies.

Several investigators have reported such effects, for example Dr. William F. Geber of the Department of Pharmacology, Medical College of Georgia at Augusta.

It is difficult to pin down the facts precisely and I regard the matter as still controversial in spite of the circumstantial evidence.

There is, however, one possible hazard of LSD which I would like to mention. We know humans can show long delayed reactions to doses of LSD. We must now learn to what extent LSD enters the fetus across the placental barrier. So far as I know, there has been no investigation on this vital point.

If Congress continues to slash the budgets for medical research, we may never know the answer. — JOSHUA LEDERBERG, PROFESSOR OF GENETICS

Dear Dr. Lederberg: I'm writing my congressman in Washington today. My message: Any decrease in government support of medical research would be disastrous. I urge my readers to do likewise.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Henceforth, the university president said, the dean of the school of engineering will make recommendations on computers.

Asked about May's dealings with IBM since 1954 as its landlord in downtown Lansing, Hannah said he doesn't remember any raised eyebrows then. IBM had only a limited amount of business with the university and electronic computers were not used extensively, he explained.

Hannah further stated that the 200,000 square feet of property next to the campus which Mr. and Mrs. May bought in 1965 for $335,000 had been offered to MSU earlier, but had been turned down because of the high price asked.

University Got Offer

It was only after the university had been offered the property that May decided to buy it, Hannah added.

Candidate Huff said Hannah's knowledge over the years of May's business dealings might be something for the board to examine after the election.

Things are getting involved for the MSU trustees. Out of the May controversy have grown a series of requests and counter-requests for investigations by Kelley of possible conflicts among other trustees.

On Oct. 8, Democrat Trustee Don Stevens of Okemos asked Kelley to give an opinion on any conflict involving Republican Trustee Kenneth W. Thompson of Lansing, who thinks May is being victimized and who voted to keep him on the job.

Thompson, a Michigan Bell Telephone Co. executive, was transferred a year ago from Birmingham to Lansing — and his office is one of those housed in the Philip Jesse Co.'s building next to the campus.

Stevens said Michigan Bell — which holds a franchise for service in the Lansing area — does extensive business with the university and therefore, Thompson might have a conflict.

Stevens, education director of the AFL-CIO, was called into question himself when Kelley was asked if Stevens was in conflict when he voted in favor of a resolution to require MSU to purchase printing services only from union shops.

Kelley ruled that Stevens was not in conflict because he is an employee of the AFL-CIO and not a policy-making executive.

And in August, Kelley was asked if Harlan was in a conflict of interest because of his association with Harlan Electric Co., which owns half the stock of Central Electric Co., which does business with MSU.

Kelley ruled there was no conflict because Harlan resigned from Central's board of directors before he was appointed a trustee in 1967, then resigned as president of Harlan Electric in 1963, turning the job over to his son, and divested of his Harlan stock in 1964.

Bitter On Ruling

May takes bitter exception to Kelley's ruling on Harlan.

Harlan was able to avoid conflict by turning stock and control of the companies over to his son, May contends. But May said because he and his wife have no children, they had to sell their stock to the brother in South Dakota.

"If people don't like my opinions, they can take them before the Supreme Court," Kelley said.

Only one opinion has been taken to the court, he added, and his ruling was upheld.

Kelley looks with disfavor on Acts 317 and 318 which last year were passed by the State Legislature and which Governor Romney allowed to become law without his signature. The bills were the result of pressure from bankers and other interests most affected by the conflict rulings, Kelley said, and they attempt to weaken anti-conflict provisions of the State Constitution of 1963.

"It's ironic that as soon as you try to administer the law, groups put on pressure to eliminate the statutes," he added. "It seems to me that the Constitutional Convention of 1963 was public interest oriented . . . We should not now make escape hatches."

Efforts Frustrating

Kelley said he has been accused of being anti-business in issuing the rulings.

"I believe we should have more businessmen coming into government," he said. "But they should be coming into government with public service in mind."

Of the entire issue of ensuring good judgment by preventing conflicts, Kelley said: "I think it is a noble concept and it will work."

But public officials will continue to run afoul of the conflict law if they try to walk the fine line between public service and self service, he added.

Kelley's office feels rather alone on the issue because of the political enemies it has produced and the public it has failed to arouse from apathy.

Public Apathetic

"The public gets more excited about a $12.40 overcharge on a Legislator's expense account than a conflict of interest involving perhaps thousands of dollars," Leon S. Conan, deputy attorney general, said.

May said Kelley is acting illegally. The Legislature's new ruling would define MSU's treasurer as a "public servant," not a "public official," May said, and he therefore should be free of any restraints under the conflict ruling.

The new rulings came into effect after May's transactions, however.

May said he has complied as well as or better than other per-sous cited by Kelley, and any dismissal or move to another position — as proposed by President Hannah — would be excessive and "politically motivated."

Green Is Next

"The attorney general himself said in his opinion that it was a close question and that I should not be penalized for a past conflict," May said.

But the movement to unseat May goes on. Martin, the Democratic candidate from East Lansing, put it this way:

"Mr. May did something which was only possible because of his position and something you or I couldn't do. Maybe it wasn't illegal, but it's the moral aspect. The integrity of the university is involved."

Martin said the trustees should take action to move May to some other job within the university, but "anything but vice president for business and finance."

If and when that is done, it will clear away that controversy. Then state officials perhaps will turn their attention to why Allison Green, state treasurer, loaned $1.33 million from the state teachers' pension fund to American Bank & Trust Co., of Lansing.

American Bank & Trust used the money to finance a Lansing apartment complex, in which MSU's attorney, Leland W. Carr Jr., has an interest.

Savannah, Ga., with its cobblestoned river front, broad avenues and oak-shaded squares, was one of the first planned cities in North America. The port was founded in 1733 by Gen. James Edward Oglethorpe and a band of English settlers.

Courts Fight 'Toledo War'

LANSING (AP) — Michigan will fight its historic, more than 130-year old, "Toledo War" with Ohio again Friday — But this time the conflict will be in the courts.

The history of the dispute over some 200 square miles of Lake Erie bottomlands goes back to 1835.

At one point, both states called up their militia and an armed conflict was prevented only by the intervention of President Andrew Jackson.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley reported Michigan will present its case in the country dispute Friday in Philadelphia before Judge Albert Maris, appointed to hear the dispute by the U.S. Supreme Court.

State geologists consider the lake bottomlands valuable because they are believed to be rich in gas, oil and mineral deposits.

Michigan claims the boundary between the two states is an extension into the lake of the land boundary, basing this on a survey made by a captain in the U.S. Corps of Engineers in 1836. Ohio contends the boundary bears northeast 45 degrees from the end of the land boundary.

Key witnesses for the state will be Ralph Berry, professor of geodetic engineering at the University of Michigan, and Robert Ives, chief petroleum geologist for the Michigan Conservation Department.

Nicholas Olds, assistant attorney general for the Conservation Department, will be in charge of presenting the state's case. More than 40 exhibits, including maps and documents dating back to 1820, will be presented to bolster the Michigan claim.

Kelley filed the suit on Nov. 21, 1966, asking for a settlement of the venerable land dispute.

The shortest distance between two points is a straight line but it may not be the best way to go from one to the other.

The Blackwood Convention represents a straight line in bidding. You can learn how many aces your partner holds before going to the small slam. You can check for kings later to see about the grand slam.

South took this straight line approach. He found that his side held all the aces. Next he learned it held all the kings. Then he suddenly did not know what to do. Should he settle for six no-trump? Should he go all the way to seven no-trump? Should he try for seven clubs?

Wallace To Visit Detroit Oct. 29

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. George Wallace has tentatively scheduled an Oct. 29 visit to Detroit in the closing days of his campaign for the presidency.

Larry Lee, Michigan coordinator of the Wallace for President committee, said the schedule is subject to change, but at present it calls for Wallace to address a rally, probably in Cobo Hall.

It would be Wallace's first appearance in Detroit since last Aug. 22 when he addressed the National Veterans of Foreign Wars convention at Cobo Hall. The tentative schedule calls for rallies at Waco, Texas and Enid, Okla. earlier in the day on Oct. 29 before Wallace visits Detroit. It was not certain whether he would spend the night in the Motor City.

Blind See With New 'Windows'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A few dozen people blind for years now are seeing again through a new method of restoring the windows of the eyes, a specialist reported today.

One man passed his driver's license test a few weeks ago, said Dr. Louis J. Girard, of Baylor University College of Medicine in Houston, Tex.

A woman, blind for 48 years — since childhood — now is able to see the children she reared, he added.

The operation putting an artificial cornea or "window" into the eye might help 10 to 15 percent of the millions of blind people throughout the world, Girard said.

It applies only to those whose own corneas have been damaged by chemical burns or other injuries or certain diseases, or who have congenital defects affecting the cornea, he said in a report for the American College of Surgeons.

He predicted that most ophthalmologists or eye specialists should be able to perform the operation, which takes up to 1½ hours.

Girard said he has placed artificial corneas into the eyes of 60 persons in the last 3½ years, and at least half are able to see. "The results are the most gratifying I have had in my career as an ophthalmologist," Girard said in explaining the technique at a news conference.

The surgery uses a tiny shaft of clear plastic which acts as a thick lens. It has skirts or projections of mesh which hold it in place through the cornea.

The person's own eye tissue can adhere to the mesh to keep it firmly placed. To achieve this, the mesh is covered with human eye tissue, sclera and conjunctiva, taken from the other blinded eye or from donated human eyes, he said.

Girard is professor and chairman of the department of ophthalmology at Baylor University and director of the Eye Institute at Texas Medical Center.

Swenson Furniture Plans Move To Rialto Building, Guard Needs New Armory

GLADSTONE—Relocation of Swenson Brothers Furniture of Gladstone into the Rialto Building on Delta Ave. will force relocation of the National Guard unit presently using part of the building as an armory.

William A. Swenson Jr. told the Daily Press today that he has reached an agreement to purchase the building from the Soo Amusement Co. of Sault Ste. Marie.

Swenson said he plans to move his furniture business into the gymnasium area of the old community building where the National Guard unit now drills.

There are no plans for removal of the Rialto Theatre or other offices presently housed in the building, he indicated. The National Guard has a lease running to Feb., 1969, but efforts already are underway to locate new headquarters for the unit, which has about 135 men under the command of Capt. Steve Fraddo of Escanaba.

been released by the Federal Government.

Besides providing drill space for the 135 men of Co. C, 107th Engineer Battalion, the present armory in the Rialto Building provides storage space for rifles, cooking equipment, engineer tools, and has lockers for men.

Vehicles of the unit are stored in the Vietzke Garage near Gladstone's north limits and also at the Gladstone power plant on Saunders Point.

Plans Indefinite

Swenson indicated his plans for remodeling the building into a furniture store are indefinite as yet, depending on the move of the National Guard.

Since the Swenson Brothers building at 195 Delta Ave. was destroyed by fire Aug. 2, 1966, the business has been located at 920 Delta Ave. and is presently at 7 N. 10th St.

Plans call for use of the gymnasium area for display for furniture for retail sale and use of the basement area, which formerly was a bowling alley, for storage.

The Rialto Building was built by Northwest Coöperative Co. as a community center in 1924. In 1927, the building was purchased by Sam Miller of Rhineland, who sold it in 1955 to Joseph DePaul, president of the Soo Amusement Co.

Founded in 1888

Swenson Brothers Furniture, one of the oldest businesses in Gladstone, was founded in 1888 by John, Claus and Casper Swenson. The original building was located on Superior Ave. when it was believed that Superior Ave. would be the principal business street in Gladstone.

When Delta Ave. proved to be the main street of the community, Swenson Brothers erected a building at 915 Delta Ave. The business remained at that location until the fire.

William Swenson Jr., is the son of the late W. Arthur Swenson, who with his brother, Noble, took over the business in 1926. Both were sons of Claus Swenson, one of the original founders.

No Criminal Conduct In Accident Case

There is no evidence of criminal conduct in connection with the accident in which Steve Micheau, 19, of 428 S. 14th St., Escanaba, was critically burned on Tuesday, Prosecuting Attorney Nicholas P. Chapekis said today.

Micheau was accidentally burned when thinner was spilled on him at the Harnischfeger truck crane plant where he was employed as a burning table operator. He is receiving treatment in the Burn Center at St. Mary's Hospital, Milwaukee.

Prosecutor Chapekis said that he had examined reports to the police chief and twice discussed the circumstances of the accident with him.

Sailboats To Autos:

Better Roads Ended Stonington Isolation

Hardships accompanying pioneer life on the Stonington Peninsula, enlivened by amusing incidents that have become a part of the Stonington story, were recounted at a program meeting of the Delta County Historical Society Tuesday night.

Speakers were Mrs. Willmer Larsen and Peder Pedersen, with reminiscences contributed by Emil Leadman and Charles Folio. The program was arranged by Folio, trustee of the Michigan Historical Society and program chairman of the local Society.

Mrs. Clint Dunathan, vice president of the Delta County Historical Society, presided at the meeting held in the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce building. She noted the progress being made toward completion of the Delta Historical Museum addition and suggested that contributions to the Museum expansion fund would be welcomed to assist in purchasing Museum equipment.

Contributions, which are tax deductible, should be addressed to Erling Arntzen, Escanaba, Historical Society treasurer, she announced.

Across The Bay

Danes, Swedes and others of Scandinavian origin settled Stonington (a peninsula separating Big and Little Bays de Noc in northern Green Bay) about a century ago. Lumbering, fishing and farming were developed as the basic industries—but the Stonington Peninsula's geographical isolation was not ended until the advent of improved roads and the coming of the automobile some 50 years ago.

Mrs. Larsen in her paper prepared for the Historical Society reported that the earliest transportation to Escanaba from Stonington was in Ole Gunderson's sloop "Little Macinac."

"At this time a good many settlers rowed across the bay in their own skiffs," she added.

"The first steamboat to operate passenger service between Stonington and Escanaba was the Annabelle, owned by Capt. Coffey. The Annabelle was later used for fishing and was replaced by the Endress, a boat equally as large.

The Ice Bridge

"The Ruby, owned by the Ewing brothers, replaced the Endress for a short time and was followed by the City of New Buffalo," Mrs. Larsen reported. "The Duluth was in passenger service from 1900 to 1904 and was followed by the Search Light. The Maywood until 1913 under the command of Capt. McCauley, and it was replaced by the Suagatuck in 1916, also with Capt. McCauley. The last boat to operate regularly between Stonington and Escanaba was Art Sundstrom's Belle C., powered by gasoline."

Transportation by boat had the one obvious fault that it could not be continued through the winter months. It was then that travel was by horse and sleigh over the bridge of ice, and there were many narrow escapes and some tragedies when horses broke through.

When the ice was weak, sometimes a boat would be equipped with sleigh runners for the crossing, and if the ice broke the boat would save the party from a ducking.

Come From Maine

Mrs. Larsen noted that the Nelson Cook home was the first frame building at Stonington; Christ Christiansen owned the first team of mules; Capt. Stratton the first team of horses; and Archie Stratton the first automobile.

Among pioneers were Christ Bonfeld, George Bonfeld, Nelson Cook, George Kay, Hands Jacobson and Peter Honborg, who were stonecutters in Maine before they came to Stonington. The name Stonington, incidentally, was selected because of the ridge of limestone that is the Peninsula's "backbone" extending southward to Peninsula Point.

"The first roads in Stonington were little more than muddy trails, with logs laid down in swamps for corduroy roads," she reported.

After an incident in which the automobile driven by Archie Stratton frightened a horse and caused a buggy to be overturned, injuring one of the women occupants, it was thought that "it was perhaps all right to own an automobile, but it was almost unforfeitable to drive one on a main-traveled road."

Road Program

Pedersen, born at Stonington 76 years ago, told how the good roads came to Stonington and brought improved contact

Pressure Builds Up In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The dangers of war and upheaval are moving closer to Cambodia despite the government's expressed determination to remain nonaligned and steer a middle course between extremists of right and left.

The ruler, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, is revered with almost religious devotion wherever he appears before his people. Many Cambodians believe Sihanouk's leadership, equally anti-Communist and anti-American, has kept Cambodia an oasis of peace on the fringes of the Vietnam war.

Foreign tourists flock to the famed temples of Angkor and Sihanouk's government spends more on building schools and hospitals than on defense.

But on most nights the roar of artillery and exploding bombs can be heard across the South Vietnamese border. Cambodian villagers are terrorized by local guerrilla gangs, Viet Cong infiltrators and occasionally by allied forces straying by error over the ill-marked border.

Sihanouk feels growing concern that the Vietnam war may spill over into Cambodia with forces which his army of 35,000 could do little to control. In every speech, he warns of the growing threat and calls for unity to preserve the nation's neutrality and independence.

Until recently, he spoke of South Vietnamese ambitions and "American imperialism" as the main danger. He vehemently denied American assertions that the Viet Cong was using Cambodia as a refuge and a military base area for attacks on Saigon and the Mekong Delta, and described the charges as pretexts for allied incursions into Cambodia.

Recently Sihanouk's government has accused the Viet Cong, possibly helped by North Vietnamese, of taking over Cambodian border areas "despite all the efforts of the authorities to expel them."

A Defense Ministry report published by the official news agency referred to the infiltrators as "armed Vietnamese" but left no doubt who was meant. It confirmed American intelligence reports of enemy activities inside Cambodia hitherto denied by the Cambodian government. This marked a turning point in Cambodia's relations with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, which maintains a diplomatic mission in Phnom Penh.

Blood Clinic Under Quota

The Delta County Red Cross today faced the outlook that the blood procurement clinic (now in its third and final day) will fall short of the 282 unit quota.

The bloodmobile ended its visit to the county at 3 p.m. today at the Teamsters Hall.

There was, however, an achievement that offset the rather dim outlook for meeting blood quotas: There were two donors who were recognized for attaining a total of seven gallons in blood contributions here. They are Allen Kidd of 1601 Stephenson Ave., who was the first to qualify for the honor, followed shortly after on Wednesday by Escanaba Mayor Cecil B. Chase, who also gave blood to bring his total to the seven-gallon mark.

The Red Cross pointed out that to give seven gallons of blood it is necessary for a donor to visit the bloodmobile 56 times.

At Gladstone on Tuesday 54 units of the 62-unit quota was collected; and in Escanaba on Wednesday there were 73 units collected. The quota in Escanaba for Wednesday and today is 110 each day.

The popular Tish stories were written by Mary Roberts Rinehart.

Wallace Writes New Chapter In History Of U.S. 3rd Party

By KAY BARTLETT
NEW YORK (AP) — Third parties in American politics have been like homey girls at a high school dance: they mostly fare badly but show up again and again and again.
But George C. Wallace's run for the White House on the American Independent party ticket may write a new and historical chapter in political handbooks.
It may turn out to be the most successful third party effort ever.
Only four times since Abraham Lincoln was sworn as president in 1860 have the third party candidates managed to carry any of the states in the electoral college or win as much as 10 per cent of the popular vote.
GOP Split
Only once since the Civil War—and then under the unusual conditions of a Republican split in 1912—has the third party candidate placed second.
That election saw two Republican presidents, incumbent William H. Taft and his predecessor, Theodore Roosevelt, battling each other. Taft on the Republican ticket and Roosevelt as a Progressive—or Bull Moose.

Revoke Licenses At Record Clip

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Department of State reports it is revoking and suspending the licenses of problem drivers at a record clip, but isn't sure how much good it does.
More than 46,000 motorists were involved in some phase of the department's driver improvement program during the first nine months of 1968, compared with 52,000 in all of 1967, says Secretary James Hare.
But, Hare adds, "there is no guarantee that these drivers are not operating vehicles illegally."
Hare hopes things will be different after Nov. 15, the effective date of a new state law which permits his department to impound the auto of a motorist convicted of driving with a revoked or suspended license.
"I have high hopes that it will succeed where other measures have failed," Hare said. "A person can't drive if he doesn't have a vehicle to drive in."

The split in the GOP easily gave the election to Democrat Woodrow Wilson and the party's failure to heal the wound by 1916 may have contributed to Wilson's re-election.
Taft finished third in 1912 with only eight electoral votes, while the man who captured the imagination of the nation as the leader of the Rough Riders won 88 electoral votes, the most a third party candidate has ever received.
Stayed In South
Together, Roosevelt and Taft captured more than 50 per cent of the popular vote, 7 million compared with Wilson's 6 million.
The second best performance turned in by a third-party candidate since the Civil War was in 1948, a year that saw the birth of two new political parties: the Dixiecrats or State's Rights party and Henry Wallace's Progressive Party.
Strom Thurmond, then governor of South Carolina, won 39 electoral votes from five Southern states opposed to Harry Truman's stand on civil rights. Thurmond's party never seriously took its campaign above the Mason-Dixon line.
Henry Wallace's party soon had the left wing label around its neck and polled only about 2 per cent of the votes cast.

LaFollette Race
In 1924, Wisconsin's crusading Robert M. LaFollette captured 13 electoral votes as a Progressive and in 1892 James B. Eaver, running on the populist ticket, took 22 electoral votes.
Other than those four instances, third parties have not captured an electoral vote for over a century, despite repeated efforts of candidates such as Socialist Norman Thomas, who ran six times, and Socialist Eugene Debs, who was on the ballot five times.
Often the combined vote of all minor parties has fallen beneath 5 per cent. In 1936, for example, candidates from five minor parties—the Union, the Socialist, the Communist, the Prohibition, the Socialist Labor—received only 2.6 per cent of the popular vote. In 1940, four minor party candidates received a scant .5 per cent, and in 1944, three candidates received .7 per cent.

MSU Trustees Recind Policy

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State University trustees today reversed themselves and rescinded a policy allowing the school's president to suspend any student disrupting the university.

The rule, adopted in a closed session at the September board meeting, had authorized President John A. Hannah "in an instance where the activities of a student constitute an immediate threat to the normal and orderly operation of the university to suspend such student pending outcome of the established procedure set forth in the academic freedom report."

Student leaders and many professors had objected that the policy, adopted in secret, threatened academic freedom.

The vote was 7-1 on reversal of the previous action, with only Frank Merriman, R-Decker, supporting suspension powers for Hannah.

"I believe that Michigan taxpayers have the right to expect that a few misled students cannot disrupt the university," Merriman said.

County Approves $712,244 Budget

A budget of $712,244 for Delta County for 1969 was given final approval by the Board of Supervisors Wednesday night at the Delta County Building.

The budget, which includes financing for the new District Court, an increased appropriation for the Escanaba Airport, wage increases for county employees based on a new board-adopted salary schedule and a larger contingent fund, is an increase of $85,367 from the 1968 budget of $626,877.

Despite the increase, the budget is expected to balance with anticipated revenues.

Revenue Listed

County Clerk William E. Butler said a total of $455,268 is expected in local property tax revenues from the allocated 5.2 mills. In addition, the county expects to carry a surplus of some $120,000 into 1969 from this year's general fund, anticipated state income tax rebates of about $109,000 and will collect some $25,000 in fees.

Action on the budget came after a recommendation by Grey Knaus, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

The new District Court budget was established at $19,400. The court will begin operating Jan. 1. No appropriation was made for the salary of the new judge, who will be paid by the State of Michigan.

The Court's budget does include, however, $4,300 for a deputy clerk, $5,000 for a magistrate and $6,500 for a court reporter along with appropriations for printing and binding, travel, postage, office equipment, supplies, telephone and law books.

Furniture Offered

The City of Escanaba has offered use of Municipal Court furniture to the county for the new district court. No location for the court has been established. Candidates for judge are Dean Shipman and Ernest Olivares.

The airport appropriation was increased from $10,000 to $15,000 for use in operating and maintaining the facility.

Salary increases approved range from $300 to a high of $1,300 and will apply to all county jobs and department heads. The Board of Supervisors previously adopted new salary schedules along with a job description and evaluation program.

The $1,300 raise was for one position in the Sheriff's Dept., where deputies have been earning less than $5,000 per year in annual salary. With the salary boost, however, the board of Supervisors eliminated $3,800 budgeted last year for officer's Sunday and holiday pay. The Sunday and holiday pay in 1969 will be considered part of the total salary.

Hours Established

Other major increases in the budget include about $15,000 in the Tax Equalization Dept., where a new job was added for about $6,500 annual salary, and the $15,000 boost in the contingent fund. The additional $15,000 was placed in the fund to be used at the discretion of the Board of Supervisors in event Pinecrest Medicare Facility needs additional operating money.

In other business, the Board set hours of the Courthouse from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m.; approved expenditure of up to $3,100 by the Purchasing Committee to purchase a commercial type washer and drier for the Sheriff's Dept., two new typewriters, a tape recorder and an adding machine and approved resolutions appropriating money from the Public Improvements Fund for bridges and primary road constructions.

Report German Measle Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP)—A licensed vaccine against German measles, a threat during early pregnancy, is reported likely to be available next year well before the next expected epidemic in this country.

The prospect, Dr. Daniel I. Mullally reported Wednesday, is based on 90 per cent effectiveness of the still experimental vaccine in tests during a continuing epidemic in Formosa.

Mullally, chief of the vaccine development branch of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, said the next epidemic is expected in the early 1970s.

During the last German measles epidemic in this country, about 30,000 babies were born with such defects as deafness, blindness, brain damage and congenital disease. An estimated 20,000 were stillborn.

The disease, technically known as "rubella," is blamed for birth defects and for miscarriages during the first three months of pregnancy but is mild when it strikes children and most adults.

A University of Washington scientist, Dr. J. Thomas Grayson, said the 3,269 boys given the vaccine received better than 90 per cent protection in the tests in Formosa.

Girls were not given the vaccine, Grayson said, because the disease itself confers long-lasting immunity and it was felt better to let them contract it.

Briefly Told

Three car deer accidents were reported to State Police Wednesday. John Farrell, Marquette, hit a deer on U. S. 41, four miles north of U. S. 2; Daryl Elsey, Detroit, hit a deer on County Rd. 569, and Arthur Soderberg, Florence, Wis., hit two deer on U. S. 2 near County Rd. 569.

State Police issued traffic summonses Wednesday to Joseph Meltz, Rapid River, defective brakes; Martin Goodwill, 317 Delta Ave., Gladstone, no operator's license; Joan Nelson, Manistique, no operator's license; Walter Johnson, 801 Montana Ave., Gladstone, illegal use of studded snow tires, and Ben Nelson, Bark River, violation of operator's license restrictions.

Larceny of two tires and wheels from a portable cement mixer owned by Bichler Gravel Co. is under investigation by State Police. The theft was reported Wednesday.

Robert Grosvenor, executive secretary of the union, said he hoped to discuss the situation with representatives of the State Mental Health Department.

Lapeer police were on hand to prevent any violence on the picket lines, with about 50 State Police troopers in reserve.

Clevenger, Other Demo Candidates Speak At Rock

A Democratic Rally was held at the Rock Lions Club Tuesday for the voters of the Rock and Perkins area, with County Clerk William E. Butler in charge of the meeting.

He introduced candidates who spoke before the group: Myrtle V. Ottensman, candidate for county treasurer; Stanley Dominick, for county supervisor, 1st District; Harold O. Finman, for sheriff; and Nicholas P. Chapekis, prosecuting attorney.

Einar E. Erlandsen, candidate for state representative, introduced Raymond F. Clevenger, candidate for congressional representative, 11th District.

Refreshments were served by the Rock Democratic Women.

Stage Walkout At Training School

LAPEER (AP)—Workers at the Lapeer State Home and Training School walked off the job and set up picket lines Wednesday night in a dispute over personnel practices.

The walkout was called by Local 567 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which represents about 700 of the 1,100 employees at the facility.

Union officials declined to call the walkout a strike. State law forbids public employees to strike.

Dr. Anthony Abruzzo, administrator of the facility, termed the union's action illegal and irresponsible.

Robert Grosvenor, executive secretary of the union, said he hoped to discuss the situation with representatives of the State Mental Health Department.

Lapeer police were on hand to prevent any violence on the picket lines, with about 50 State Police troopers in reserve.

Stocks Up In Record Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market surged higher in record trading early Thursday after widespread reports of a move to halt the bombing in North Vietnam and possibly bring peace a step nearer.

Before the first hour was over, volume soared to a first-hour record of 7.66 million shares. The previous record for any first hour was 6.74 million. That peak was reached Oct. 3 when the day's total was 21.11 million shares, second highest in history.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose more than 7 points, topping this year's previous closing high on an intraday basis.

A series of big blocks were traded. Trading was quickened not only by eagerness of traders to get aboard a "peace bandwagon" but also by the normal pent-up demand after a Wednesday closing.

Chrysler and U.S. Gypsum advanced about 2 each, Montgomery Ward, Kennecott, General Development, Uniroly, Anacostan American Can, Westinghouse Electric, Merck and Pfizer a point or so each.

Escanaba Area Schools Adopt 1968-69 Budget

The Escanaba Area Board of Education at a special meeting Wednesday night adopted an operating budget of $2,581,681 for the 1968-69 school year.

The budget reflects an increase of $298,681 over last year's curtailed budget and, if income estimates are accurate, provides for spending some $121,194 over revenue.

A millage request of 4.9 mills to be considered by school district voters Nov. 5 is proposed by the Board of Education to make up the deficit.

Final adoption of the budget came after cutbacks of $23,400 were made in the initial budget proposals. The board eliminated budgeting for two teachers and also dropped a $10,000 contingency appropriation.

The two teachers, according to Supt. Luther M. Barrett, were planned for the high school this year, but because school opened without them inclusion at this time would require a complicated schedule shuffle.

The contingency fund has been budgeted by the Board of Education to allow for unpredicted expenses during the school year.

Dennis Schneider of the Escanaba accounting firm of Schneider, Larche & Haapala appeared at the meeting to answer questions posed regarding school accounting procedures. The Board invited anyone with further questions to meet with Schneider.

Barrett said that a five-man team from the Michigan Treasury Dept. will begin an audit of school district financial records Monday and expect to complete the job in about two weeks.

The audit was requested by the Board of Education after district financing was questioned during the recent school bus crisis.

Members of the B.U.S. (Better Understanding of Schools) committee attended the meeting and School Board Trustee Charles Tooman said that the Board of Education is supporting the action of the committee.

He also encouraged anyone with questions regarding the Escanaba Area public schools, particularly questions which might be answered by the state audit, to send them to the committee or to the Board of Education.

The Board said it would meet with any group or organization to answer questions regarding the 4.9 mill proposal.

The budget adopted provides for a full school program. Major expenditures will be $704,822 for elementary teachers salaries and $762,970 for secondary teacher salaries.

Salaries of school district employees, including teachers, administrators and non-professional employees, account for over 80 per cent of the budget expenses.

Rule On Teachers In 'Agency Shop'

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has been asked to rule on whether school districts and teacher organizations may negotiate "agency shop" arrangements under which teachers must pay the equivalent of union dues to keep their jobs.

Sen. Lorraine Beebe, R-Deerborn, asked the ruling, saying "It has been reported that about 100 Pontiac teachers face dismissal by the school board because they refuse to pay $85 to a teachers' bargaining unit."

Mrs. Beebe asked Kelley "whether, in the absence of any demerit against their experience, their teaching ability or their character, they may be dismissed solely for not paying dues to a union."

Woman's Club Told Of French Students' Trip

By JANET MARTIN

The October meeting of the Escanaba Woman's Club was held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Central United Methodist Church with Mrs. Stanley Venne, president, presiding. It was announced that a library assistance workshop, hosted by the Escanaba Woman's Club will be held on Saturday, Oct. 26. Workshop sessions will be held in the morning and a guest speaker will be featured in the afternoon.

Mrs. John Gunderson reported on the 51st annual district Women's Club convention which she, Mrs. Venne, and Mrs. Harold Vanlerberghe attended last month in Manistique.

Mrs. Gunderson stated that all of the speakers stressed that, "Woman's Clubs should be working organizations and not just social clubs," which is so often the case with many clubs.

District Chairman
During the convention, Mrs. Stanley Venne was appointed district chairman of the public affairs department. The 1969 convention will be held in Norway.

Mrs. Marvin Roberts, chairman of the annual fall luncheon and card party termed the event a success and stated that the proceeds will be given to the education and youth committees to be used for a scholarship to Bay de Noc Community College.

Mrs. Al Gossan presented the soloist for the afternoon, Mrs. Phil Lyon, contralto, who offered two selections sung in French. She was accompanied by Mrs. Robert Meyer.

Guest Speakers
Mrs. John Gunderson, program chairman for the afternoon introduced five students of Jean Cote's French class at Escanaba Area High School, who spent six weeks in France and England this summer.

The students, Carol Lambert, Cilla Rosemurgy, Nancy Mitchell, Diane Vogt and Elizabeth Rogers gave an interesting talk on their experiences abroad. A question and answer session followed.

Tea was served at the conclusion of the program with Mrs. Ralph Anderson and Mrs. James Fitzharris and their committee in charge. The next meeting of the Woman's Club will be held Nov. 9 at 2 p.m. in the Project Pride Room of the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Halloween Fest Combines Pagan, Christian Customs

Halloween nowadays is an evening of fun for the little ones, of dressing up in costumes, going to parties, and begging goodies door-to-door. But Halloween once was a time of terror and the costumes children wear on Halloween night reflect that far-off time.

The Druids, an order of priests in ancient Gaul and Britain, believed that on Halloween, ghosts, spirits, fairies, witches and elves came out to harm people. They thought the cat was sacred, and believed that cats once had been human beings but were changed as a punishment for evil deeds.

From these druidic beliefs come the present-day use of witches, ghosts, and cats in Halloween festivities.

The Druids had an autumn festival called Samhain (pronounced SAH win), or summer's end. It was an occasion for feasting on all the foods which had been grown during the summer, and for this reason the custom of using leaves, pumpkins, and cornstalks as Halloween decorations also comes from the Druids.

The Roman Catholic Church named Nov. 1 as All Saints' Day, and the evening before it was called Halloween, which means hallowed or holy evening. The Christian feast day and the old pagan customs were combined into the Halloween festival.

Kelley's Ruling On Write-Ins Termed Political

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Dissident Democrats promoting a write-in campaign for Sen. Eugene McCarthy say they may go to court to challenge an attorney general's opinion that their efforts have been in vain.

One said the ruling by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, which was issued Wednesday, was a political move designed to help Democratic Presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey. Others said the opinion would hurt other Democratic candidates on the ballot.

"We are consulting with several attorneys and we are considering filing an action," said Marc Ross, treasurer of the Ann Arbor-based McCarthy Write-in Committee. "I can't say definitely at this time that we're going into court, but there's a good possibility of that."

Meanwhile, added Marvin Marshak, a spokesman for the committee, "we're going ahead with everything that we've been going — raising money and distributing stickers. We have no inclination to stop now."

The committee and other backers of the Minnesota senator, who lost the Democratic Presidential nomination to Humphrey at the party's national convention, has been distributing ballot stickers listing 21 presidential electors.

They have urged liberal voters to "write in" the pro-McCarthy slate of electors as an alternative to the regular Democratic electors who will cast Michigan's 21 electoral votes if their party carries Michigan Nov. 5.

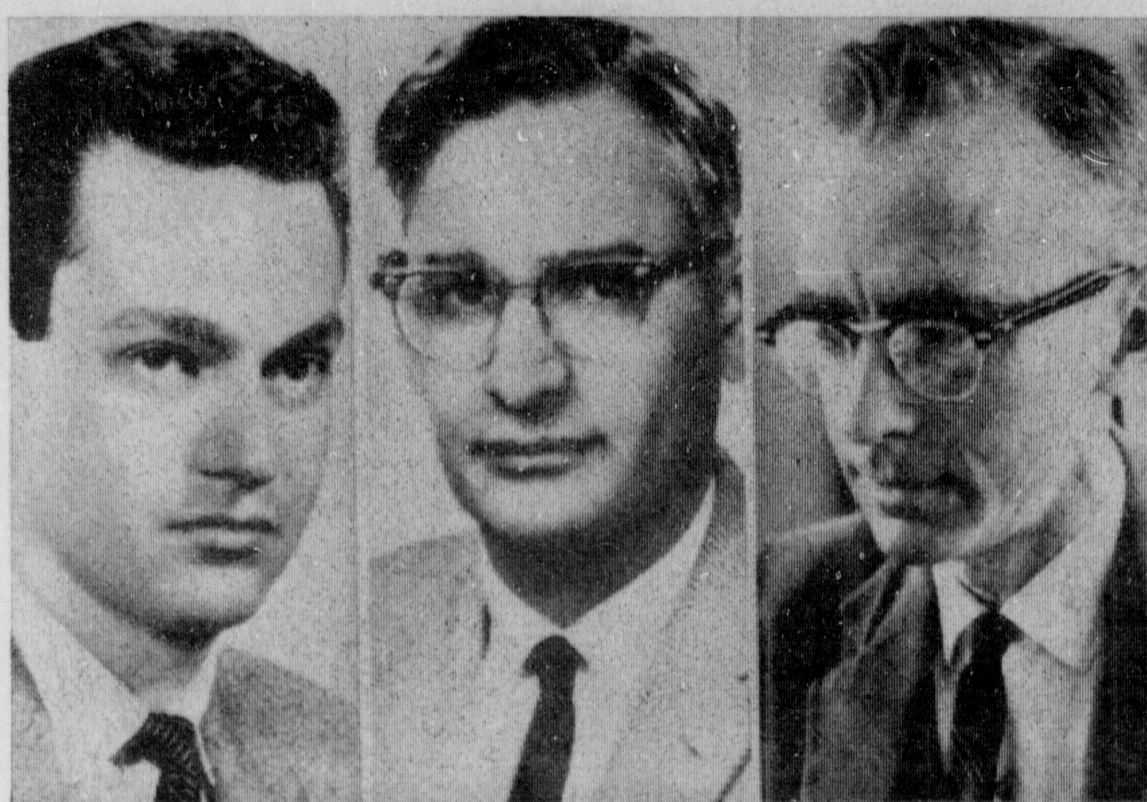

Kelley ruled, however, that votes cast for the McCarthy electors would be invalid, since their names were not certified to the secretary of state before the Sept. 4 deadline.

He also said that if a voter crosses Humphrey's name off his ballot, writes in that of McCarthy or anyone else and then votes for that person, the effect will be the same as a vote for Humphrey — since it will be counted for the Democratic electors.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon Cohan said that would be true even if a voter wrote in at the top of the Democratic column on the ballot the name of Richard Nixon, the Republican Presidential nominee. His vote, Cohan said, would still go to the Democrats.

As a result, it appears that unless Kelley's opinion is overturned in the courts, it is impossible to cast a valid vote for McCarthy for President in Michigan.

Ross said he was "not particularly surprised" by the ruling. "We may just hurt Hubert Humphrey enough that he'll lose this state, even though that isn't our intention," he said. "We aren't surprised that Mr. Kelley would try to prevent that."

Nobel Prize Awarded To Three Americans

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Three American professors were awarded the 1968 Nobel Prize for physiology and medicine Wednesday for their work in deciphering the genetic code, popularly known as a key to life to determine how genes of a cell direct a cell's function.

The joint winners are Robert Holley of Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., Har Gobind Khorana of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., and Marshall Warren Nirenberg of the National Heart Institute, Bethesda, Md.

Many scientists have worked on the problems for which the professors won the world's most coveted medical distinction. The three will share equally in the award, which has a record cash value this year of $70,000.

Experts explained that the efforts involved translation of the genetic code, a sequence of four nucleotides in nucleic acids, into the sequence of 20 amino acids in proteins. This could be compared with the translation of a language containing four letters into another containing 20 letters.

The medical prize is one of five set up to be awarded annually under the will of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. Each will be worth $70,000 this year.

The Nobel Peace Prize for 1968 was awarded Oct. 9 to Prof. Rene Cassin of France, who heads the European Court of Human Rights.

The literary laureate of the year is to be chosen here Thursday. A German novelist, Gunter Grass, is considered among the top prospects. The remaining prizes, for physics and chemistry, will be distributed Oct. 30.

The American scientists were singled out by the Swedish Royal Caroline Institute of Medicine and Physiology. It said they had worked independently, but that their investigations converged toward the solution of a common problem.

Integrated Angels In Negro Church

DETROIT (AP)—The new dome of a predominantly Negro Catholic church in Detroit will feature a black Christ surrounded by a band of integrated angels.

The Christ and Negro, white, Indian and Oriental angels will be painted on the dome of St. Cecilia Church as though they are rising from a Detroit skyline.

Scenes around the skyline will show social, industrial and spiritual revolution, according to the artist, Devon Cunningham, a Negro painter.

Emerging from the clouds beneath the feet of the 24-foot, purple-robed Christ and angels will be portraits of dead leaders, black and white, including John and Robert Kennedy, Pope John XXIII, Martin Luther King Jr., Malcolm X and Mahatma Gandhi.

Produce Negro Television Show

DETROIT (AP)—"Black" took top billing over white on hundreds of television sets in the Detroit area as a Negro team of producers, directors, writers and actors launched the city's first televised "soul" variety show Wednesday night.

The hour-long, all-Negro series soared to a fast start with Dick Gregory, comedian and civil rights activist, headlining its personalities against a background of uptempo jazz on WTVS-TV, UHF channel 56.

The name of the fledgling program is CPT — after what producer Tony Brown calls an "in" joke among Negroes about "Colored People's Time."

Colored People's Time, he explained tongue-in-cheek, occurs because "our group is always late."

Other light sprinklings of humor about racial situations popped in and out the production, which was aired at 10 p.m. on WTVS, the city's educational station. CPT will be seen at 10 p.m. on Wednesdays and Fridays, with a change of show each week.

At least 13 shows are planned under the $43,000 currently available in CPT's budget. About half of the budget came from the city's Junior League and the remainder from federal funds.

Aim of the program is to stress unity and pride of Negroes, said Gilbert A. Maddox, executive producer.

The variety format, borrowed in part from "The Today Show," is oriented toward the black population which constitutes an estimated 40 per cent of Detroit's 1.6 million residents.

Negro-interest local and national news, history, shopping tips, community events, fashions and other attention-getters are mixed in with appearances by black entertainers, church choirs and short documentaries of serious issues. The first documentary Wednesday night analyzed "The Olympic Revolt," the proposed boycott by Negro athletes of the Olympic games.

Technically, the first show emerged as a rapidly paced production which maintained a steady viewer interest through its well-timed changes in emphasis.

Son Dead, Mother Would Still Have Him Play Football

ST. CLAIR SHORES (AP)—Last Monday, 15-year-old Stephan Zuback died of injuries he suffered in a high school football game.

But his mother says that if he were alive, she still would want him to play football.

"It helped form his character and keep him out of trouble," says Mrs. Joanna Zuback of St. Clair Shores.

"If he hadn't been playing football, he could have been killed doing something else," she says. "I would have worried much more about him if he were riding around on a motorcycle like some of the youngsters."

Stephen was playing guard for Lakeview High School in a game against Grosse Pointe North when he was injured last Thursday. It is assumed that he suffered a blow to the head while blocking a kick.

Missing Hunter

HEPPNER, Ore. (AP)—Twenty-five persons searched Tuesday night for Mike McCarthy, 17, after he failed to return from a hunting outing.

McCarthy walked home Wednesday with a four-point deer.

Controversial MSU Vesp Quits

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State University Vice President-Treasurer Philip J. May plans to quit his $37,000-a-year post, the Detroit Free Press said it had learned Wednesday.

MSU trustees split by a vote of 4-4 last month on the question of whether to dismiss May. He had been under fire for private business dealings with MSU suppliers.

The Free Press said May would ask permission at today's meeting of the trustees to retire effective at the end of the year or during the first half of 1969.

Although MSU President John A. Hannah has criticized May's judgment in private business dealings, he has defended the vice president as "one of the ablest university finance officers in the country."

State Attorney General Frank Kelley has ruled on two occasions that May's financial dealings were in conflict with his duties as an MSU officer.

4 Killed, Rush Hour Accident

WYANDOTTE (AP)—Four people were killed and three critically injured Wednesday when a car sideswiped a semi-trailer rig on heavily traveled I-75, bounced over the median strip and landed upside down on a car in the opposite lane.

Rush hour traffic was tied up for about six miles in each direction before it was cleared. State Police at the Flat Rock post said.

With Mike Utt

Fullback Pat Collins of the Menominee Maroons has a chance to become the first Maroon in many years to reach the coveted 2,000 yard mark in rushing. The Maroon senior has ground out 844 yards in seven games this season and still has two more to play. Thus far in three years of playing, Collins has gained 1,901 yards and scored 25 touchdowns, including 13 this season.

Two former Upper Peninsula gridders are considered good prospects in the future plans of the University of Wisconsin, Rudy Steiner, a quarterback from Iron Mountain, and Mike Smolich, a tackle from Wakefield, have inspired frosh coach LaVern VanDyke with their performances this season.

Michigan Tech University suffered a serious football setback when former Iron River star Dane Dominici suffered a knee injury in last Saturday's loss to Moorhead State. He suffered possible torn ligaments and may be lost for the rest of the season, Tech is preparing for its homecoming contest against Winona State Saturday.

Dave Ghiardi, head Munising High School basketball coach the last four years, resigned the position at a meeting of the Munising Board of Education Monday night. Ghiardi stated the reason he was retiring was because of health problems.

The Channing Railroaders, behind the no-hit pitching of Todd Lindeman, walked away with the championship in the Skyline baseball conference by defeating Felch, 5-0. Lindeman struck out 15 and walked six in pitching his second no-hitter of the season, Channing also tied the conference record for consecutive victories when they beat Hermansville for win number 22 earlier in the season. Channing finished the year with a 10-1 record.

Former U. P. basketball players reporting to Dave Cade at Michigan Tech at the opening drills Tuesday were Alan Morrison of Ishpeming, Robert Fredrickson of L'Anse and Bernie Larson of Escanaba. Also expected to report after the football season ends are John Meyers of Houghton and Dane Dominici of Iron River.

San Diego State Retains Top Spot

San Diego State retained the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press' small college football poll Wednesday after rolling to its fourth straight victory, but the Aztecs must be looking back at North Dakota State's fast-closing express.

San Diego State defeated Texas Southern 42-23 last weekend and collared 10 first-place votes and 278 points in the latest vote. North Dakota State, however, continued to gain ground on the front-runners after crushing Augustana, S.C., 70-18. The Bison received 224 points for a close second in the balloting by a regional panel of 15 sportswriters and broadcasters.

Last week, North Dakota State was 70 points behind the Aztecs, 278 to 208.

Eastern Kentucky held on to third place with 209 points after whipping Middle Tennessee, 49-21. After the first three, however, the standings got a face-lifting.

Western Kentucky, the 10th ranked team last week, leaped to fourth place after clobbering Western Illinois, 66-0; Texas A&I, No. 6 last time, stepped up to fifth after beating Stephen F. Austin, 34-0, and New Mexico

Olympic Village Reactions Split After Demonstration By Runners

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The reaction around Olympic Village ranged from "good show" to "send 'em home" today to the black-first demonstration by U.S. sprinters Tommie Smith and John Carlos at the normally sacrosanct medal ceremonies. "I think it's a shame and a disgrace," said Bill Tomney, America's decathlon champion from Laguna, Calif. "There is no place for personal spleen or politics in the Olympic Games."

"We all thought it was a bloody good show," commented John Wetton, Great Britain's 1,500-meter hope, with a nod of agreement from teammates Andrew Todd and John Davis. "It's bully that these blokes had nerve enough to express their feelings." All three are white.

While the buzzing Village debated the propriety of the U.S. Negroes' deportment on the Olympic victory stand Wednesday, people wondered what the black athletes might have—after anything—for an encore.

And another popular query: "What is Avery Brundage going to say?"

Brundage, controversial 81-year-old president of the International Olympic Committee, spent a pleasant day at Acapulco, where the yachts were sailing peacefully, and was not available immediately for comment.

Absence of the Chicago hotel owner prevented an immediate confrontation with two of the American militant blacks who have insisted they don't want to receive medals from Brundage's hands.

Also there was speculation among some connected with

Black Becomes Dominant Color Of Olympic Games

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Black, not gold, became the dominant color of these troubled 19th Olympic Games today.

As America's powerful forces moved steadily ahead in their quest of gold medals, and the cache should increase substantially with the start of swimming, the dark cloud of racial unrest overshadowed the record-breaking performances of the U.S. athletes.

Tommie Smith and John Carlos raised high the black-gloved fist of racial protest Wednesday while still on the podium after receiving their medals for a 1-3 finish in the 200-meter dash.

"White America would not understand" the gesture, Carlos, of San Jose, Calif., said later. "They recognize me only when I do something bad and they call me 'Negro.'"

He said the black gloves and raised, clenched fist, "was to show that black men in America are united. We are gradually—no, I mean rapidly—getting closer together."

They accepted their medal from Lord Burghley of England. Both had said they would not accept a medal from International Olympic Committee President Avery Brundage, who was in Acapulco watching the Olympic sailing.

During the press conference Carlos turned to his wife and handed her the medal. "This is yours," he said. "I do not want it."

He then said he would not attend another Olympics unless he paid his own way there, a broad hint of a boycott of the 1972 Games in Munich, Germany.

Smith, who won in 19.8, better than the listed world mark, listened intently, nodding from time to time. Carlos has a pending mark of 19.7, but it may not be allowed because of the brush-type shoe he wore in the race.

Peter Norman of Australia was second, just edging Carlos.

It was only one of a flock of world marks to fall. Bob Seagren of Los Angeles picked up America's only other gold medal of the day with 17-8½ inches, better than the listed record of 17-7. Seagren, however, has a pending mark of 17-9.

George Young, Casa Grande, Calif., picked up the U.S. other medal Wednesday, a bronze for third in the 5,000-meter steeplechase. Amos Biwott of Kenya won it in 8:30.8 and his teammate, Benjamin Kogo, was second in 8:51.6. Young was timed in 8:51.8.

That gave the United States a total of 12 medals, six of them gold. But Russia, the other giant of the Games, closed up a bit, winning two events and pushing its total medal collection to eight, three of them gold.

Russia's two victories came from Yanis Lusis in the javelin with a throw of 295-2½, an Olympic record, and from Victor Kurentsov in middleweight weightlifting with a total hoist of 1,046 pounds, an Olympic record. He also set a world record with a clean and jerk of 312½ pounds.

The United States was blanked in both, through Russell Knipp, Chicago, was fourth in weightlifting, just 5 pounds short of the bronze.

In the other finals, petite Collette Besson of France won the women's 400 meters in 52 seconds flat, Ingrid Becker of West Germany took the women's pentathlon with a total of 5,098 points and Ian Drimba of Rumania won the men's fencing foil final with a 4-1 record.

Seagren's victory in the pole vault was packed with drama, and a heart-breaker for teammate John Pennel.

Seagren, Claus Schiprowski of West Germany and Wolfgang Nordwig of East Germany all cleared 17-8½. Then all three missed at 17-10½.

Seagren won on fewer misses. Seagren and Schiprowski each had one miss at 17-8½, and Nordwig had two. However, at 17-6, Schiprowski had one miss and Seagren passed the attempt, counting as a victory.

"I felt confident the way everyone was jumping we would go to the higher height so I didn't think I was taking any risk," he said.

Pennel also cleared at 17-8½ but his pole went under the bar and he was declared out, finishing fifth in the 7½ hour competition.

The U.S. unbeaten basketball team turned back previously unbeaten and highly regarded Yugoslavia 73-58 while Russia remained unbeaten with an 81-56 romp over Bulgaria.

Only two swimming finals are scheduled today, the women's 400 meter medley relay, and the men's 400-meter freestyle. The Americans are favored in both and are expected to set world marks.

DETROIT (AP)—As Sunday's battle between the Detroit Lions and Green Bay Packers draws near, the questions of starting Nick Eddy and Bart Starr remain unanswered.

There were noises in the Lions camp earlier in the week that Eddy, the All-American from Notre Dame sidelined with knee injuries for the last two years, will make his first appearance in a regular season game.

But Wednesday Coach Joe Schmidt was still taking a wait and see attitude on Eddy. "We'll have to see how Thursday's workout goes," said Schmidt.

Meanwhile, in Green Bay, quarterback Starr was throwing Wednesday for the first time since injuring his right arm while warming up before last week's game against Los Angeles.

"I didn't throw very well," said Starr after the light workout, adding he really didn't know if he would be ready to go against the Lions in Detroit.

"I'd like to be," said Starr, "but I just don't know. I just don't know. It's kind of frustrating. I don't even like to think about it."

"All we can do is wait on him," said Coach Phil Bengtson.

Grid Slates Nearing Finish In Peninsula

Upper Peninsula football for the 1968 season is rapidly drawing to a close with only four teams still sporting unbeaten marks as many of the schools enter the final week of their schedules.

The elite four, Escanaba, Marquette, St. Ignace and DeTour are all in action this weekend, with Marquette and DeTour playing their final games of the season. Escanaba has two games left, while St. Ignace, the only team of the four still with a perfect mark, has three games left and will close out the grid season on November 1.

The Escanaba Eskymos, ranked on top of the U. P. Sportswriters Football Poll, for six straight weeks, travel to Iron Mountain for a Great Northern Conference clash against the Mountaineers, currently 2-4 on the season. The Eskymos hold a 2-0-1 mark in conference play and need victories the next two weekends to sew up the title.

Escanaba leads the U. P. preps in scoring this season with 238 points in their seven contests, while holding their foes to a mere 45. Their offensive power rests with quarterback Greg Johnson and the running of Dan Mylander, Ken Robitaille and Jim Olson. Much of the defensive success must be contributed to senior line-backer John Mileski and defensive end Steve Strophich.

The Holy Name Crusaders, suffering through one of the worst seasons in the school's history, are at home against the Munising Mustangs in a Saturday night encounter. Parents of the Holy Name squad members will be honored during the game and the Crusaders will be out to make a good showing in their next to the final game of the season.

The Crusaders fell victim to the West Iron County Wykons last weekend, mostly the fault of many errors made by the offensive team. The Crusader defensive team looked sharp and held the powerful Wykons to 36 yards rushing in the second half of their 39-0 loss. Don't let the scores of the Holy Name games fool you. The defensive unit hits hard and lets the opposition know they are in a football game.

Gladstone entertains the Sault Ste. Marie Blue Devils at the Marble Athletic Field in Gladstone Saturday afternoon in a Great Lakes Conference contest. The Braves are currently in second place in the conference standings with a 5-1 mark and the Blue Devils are sitting in third place with a 4-2 record. Marquette heads the list with a 6-0 record.

Gladstone ranks second in the peninsula to St. Ignace in the defensive department, having allowed only 40 points to be scored on them in seven games. Their defense is led by ends Mike Quinn and Ed Hart and middle guard Craig Johnson.

Marquette travels to Manistique for the final game of the season for both schools. The Redmen were tied in their opening game of the season by Kingsford and since then have gone on to triumph in six straight games. Manistique sports a 2-5 record in seven games this season and will be out to make their season a success by knocking off the unbeaten Redmen in the Great Lakes Conference encounter.

Also, at the other end of the ladder, only two teams, Houghton and Pickford, have yet to win a game this season, which

McLain Makes Nervous Las Vegas Club Debut

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Denny McLain, who has already proven himself as a pitcher, pounded out hits on an electric organ Wednesday night in his Major League night club debut.

The 31-year-old pitcher was as nervous as a rookie at times as he led his quartet through 11 songs before an overflow crowd of 400 at the Riviera Hotel lounge.

"A Frank Sinatra I'm not," the Detroit Tiger pitcher quipped as he sang an off-color version of "Bye, Bye Blackbird" that made even the Las Vegas audience blush.

He decided to try singing, too, he said, when he learned that Mickey Lolich, who won three World Series games for Detroit, will open with a singing group Oct. 30 at the Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas.

The organ swayed at times as the hefty right-hander rambled through "The Look of Love," "Sunny," and "By the Time I Get to Phoenix" in a pop but not rock 'n' roll style.

McLain, in bright blue slacks and white shoes, shed a $3,000 fur Nehru jacket for a sports coat, calling the Nehru a "helluva warmup jacket."

McLain, who is trying to get a $100,000 salary from the Tigers next year, told newsmen he would consider quitting baseball if he got a really good music offer.

Wildcats Lose Young Halfback

MARQUETTE (AP) — Sophomore halfback Johnny Hutton of Northern Michigan is sidelined for the season because of injuries he suffered when he mistook a plate glass window for a door and walked through it.

Hutton, who suffered severe cuts to his arms and legs and severed a tendon in his lower right arm, walked through the window in a dimly lit hallway on the way to a dining hall.

A breakaway runner from Toledo, Ohio, Hutton had gained 235 yards in 37 carries and scored three touchdowns in five games. He was not a starter but the No. 1 backup replacement.

Northern, which last week lost its first game in four outings, fell from No. 4 to No. 8 on the Associated Press small college football poll.

In the 17-3 loss to North Texas, the Wildcats lost starting fullback Kent Lefebvre for this week's game against the Quantico Marines. Lefebvre injured a knee.

Eye Fox River Site For New Hatchery

By BARBARA JOHNSON

A new $3 million fish hatchery on the Fox River between Seney and Germfask in Schoolcraft County is being considered by the State Conservation Dept. The hatchery is one of three new installations proposed in the state — the other two for Lower Michigan — with a total price investment of $9 million.

Plans call for 20 million trout and salmon plantings each year, from the new hatcheries, to aid Great Lakes fishing.

Depends On Vote

Although the Fox River site

was found to be very desirable by the team of consulting engineers who surveyed the area Henry VonDett, regional fish biologist at the Marquette Regional Conservation office, said that no final approval can be given until after the November elections. Financing for the three new hatcheries will come from Gov. George Romney's $435 million Clean Water and Quality Recreation proposal — No. 3 on the November ballot.

VonDett said that the engineers found the ground water and stream sources in the Upper Fox River area "very good and ideally suited for a hatchery location." The site is located about 40 miles east of Manistique, south of M-28 and east of M-77. VonDett added that the Big Springs area in Schoolcraft County and Whitefish Bay area in Chippewa County were also inspected.

Favored By Board

The Conservation Department hopes to expand their hatchery system under the proposed $70 million to be allocated for recreational improvements such as state parks, fishing areas, forest campgrounds, etc. If Proposal 3 gets voter approval. An additional $30 million would go to local government for playgrounds, parks and recreational centers under the proposal. Matching federal and local funds would up the proposed $100 million program to $155 million. Financing would come through the issuance of general obligation bonds.

The Fox River area used to be called "Michigan's Siberia" by lumberjacks who logged in the vicinity — a reference to its wildness and virginity. A trout rearing pond was maintained in the same general area — between Seney and Grand Marais — by the Conservation Department but this has reportedly been closed.

The Schoolcraft County Board of Supervisors unanimously adopted a resolution at the annual meeting Tuesday urging the Conservation Department to establish a hatchery in the Seney-Germfask area.

Hospital

Admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital were Ray Weber, Carl Liebig, Ervin Bremer, Emil Knoph, Ernelia O'Neil, James Burns, Kevin Rossier, Roberta Kenny, Delina Larson, Bradley Segerstrom, Mike Gierke, Robert Weinfurter, Hannah Swanson, Agda Settergren, David Sundling, and Irene Cayer.

City Building Bid Figures Run High

Bids on Manistique's new municipal building were opened at the recessed session of City Council Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 but none were accepted. Instead all bids were referred to architect Lou Barone for consideration.

It was apparent Council was disappointed with the bids since the lowest one was about $23,000 over their $80,000 estimated cost. Three primary bids on structure construction, two electrical bids, and one plumbing and heating bid were received.

'Dress Up Band' Is Rallying Cry For Fund Drive

A "Dress Up The Band" meeting will be held tonight at the high school for parents of the Manistique High School senior band members. Mrs. Robert Johnson will head a drive to raise funds for the purchase of new uniforms and hopes to gather ideas, help and a working plan so that the band members, their parents and interested supporters can work together to secure the money for new uniforms.

A committee of band members and Gary Lester, director, selected new uniforms which will replace the green and white suits which have been used by the MHS band for more than 30 years.

A total of $7,000 is needed for the new uniforms and the board of education has pledged half this cost. $1200 of their share will come from money left by the late Alex Creighton for this purpose.

All parents are urged to attend the meeting and also parents of junior high band members. Any interested alumni, who might have marched in the present band uniforms, are also invited to attend and participate.

Criticizes NATO

LISBON (AP) — Portugal's new premier, Marcello Caetano, declared Wednesday that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is not "the protective shield of only one policy."

In what amounted to a renewed call for political backing from the Western allies for Portugal's controversial African territorial policy, Caetano said: "The principle remedy (to NATO's problems) would consist in reinforcing Western solidarity, which should not be circumscribed in the present restricted terms, but in more ample terms, to assure real political protection everywhere and for all that is the West."

GOP Back Demo

ROYAL OAK (AP) — The Oakland County Republican organization announced Wednesday it is supporting a Democrat who is seeking election in the non-partisan race for Michigan Appeals Court judge in the 2nd District.

In letters to other GOP groups advising them of the action, Chairman Joseph Farnham said "there are two candidates and both are Democrats. . . we have decided we have an obligation to let our Republican voters know what we think."

Costume Event Is Feature Of Forester Party

Mrs. James Redeker received first prize for her Halloween costume when the National Catholic Society of Foresters met for a 6:30 costume-potluck dinner at the Parish Center on Tuesday. The Franciscan Sisters were guests of the Society at the dinner and served as judges.

Mrs. Darryl Bertrand, Mrs. Paul Heinz and Mrs. Ray Ranguette were welcomed into Society membership by Mrs. Lawrence Savoie, president. Two junior transfers, Ann Marie Weber and Jill Roemer, were initiated into membership during the business meeting. Mrs. William Pistulka, Mrs. Fred Lesica, Mrs. Tom Hoholik, Mrs. Conrad Jahn and Mrs. Charles Greene were initiation team members.

Mrs. Jack Phillips reported on the Copper Country Association meeting in Houghton which she and Mrs. Lesica, Mrs. George Tiglas and Mrs. Charles Redeker attended. Mrs. Savoie announced that the Marathon Card Awards Party would be held in November and asked that all in the Marathon send in their scores as early as possible.

Attendance premiums were awarded Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Paul Dragos, and Mrs. Ranguette. Games awards went to Mrs. Ellsworth Davenport and Mrs. Redeker.

Next meeting of the Manistique Chapter will be on Nov. 12 with final plans made for trophy and prize awards for the Card Marathon.

Create Permanent 23-Man Grand Jury

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne County's prosecutor was expected to petition Circuit Court today to create what could be the first permanent, 23-man grand jury in the last half-century in Michigan.

Prosecutor William L. Cahalan was reported drafting the petition in the wake of burglary and larceny charges against a number of Highland Park policemen.

His office called a news conference for today to discuss details.

A standing, 23-member grand jury created by the Circuit Court would be in addition to the state's system of one-man grand juries. The single-juror systems, however, have been limited to terms of six months, with extensions up to a year.

Several judges and other legal experts told newsmen they could not recall a permanent state grand jury in the last 50 years or more. Newspaper files failed to disclose information on any such juries after 1917 when the Legislature passed the law allowing one-man grand juries.

A permanent grand jury could be approved by a majority of the 27 Wayne County circuit judges.

It would supplement the current system in which the prosecutor's office presents information on alleged felonies to lower court judges who may then send the case to circuit or Recorder's (Criminal) court judges for arraignments.

The only permanent grand juries operating in Michigan are those of the federal courts, which hand down all indictments in federal felony cases unless a defendant waives a right to jury indictment.

Many large cities and counties in states other than Michigan have standing grand juries which return indictments in capital and other felony cases under their state laws.
